Informational Society Alfred L. Norman, 2025-06-17 This book explores the transition into a future economy where human work is largely replaced by automation. As this transition takes place, job destruction will outpace job creation, resulting in increasing unemployment. The author theorizes that the key challenges in managing this transition will be providing income for the unemployed, reforming a government dominated by the wealthy and corporate interests, and creating new social structures to replace work as a central focus of life. The book begins with a discussion of the concept of bounded rationality and how it influences the pace of technological adoption. The author also discusses how advances in technology, particularly in automation, affect both physical and informational tasks, transforming industries and reducing employment across sectors. Next, the author turns to government, addressing successes and failures in addressing current issues like climate change, immigration, economic inequality, and government capture by the wealthy and corporations. Government reform is essential for managing the social and economic impacts of automation. Positing that the transition period will begin between 2030 and 2050, the author recommends that planning should begin now to implement solutions including a negative income tax, affordable housing, and a shift towards leisure-based social organization.

Transdisciplinary Lifecycle Analysis of Systems R. Curran, N. Wognum, M. Borsato, 2015-07-15 Concurrent Engineering (CE) is based on the premise that different phases of a product's lifecycle should be conducted concurrently and initiated as early as possible within the Product Creation Process (PCP). It has become the substantive basic methodology in many industries, including automotive, aerospace, machinery, shipbuilding, consumer goods, process industry, and environmental engineering. CE aims to increase the efficiency of the PCP and reduce errors in later phases while incorporating considerations for full lifecycle and through-life operations. This book presents the proceedings of the 22nd ISPE Inc. International Society for Productivity Enhancement International Conference on Concurrent Engineering (CE) 2015, entitled Transdisciplinary Lifecycle Analysis of Systems, and held in Delft, the Netherlands, in July 2015. It is the second in the series Advances in Transdisciplinary Engineering. The book includes 63 peer-reviewed papers and 2 keynote speeches arranged in 10 sections: keynote speeches, systems engineering, customization and variability management, production-oriented design, maintenance and repair design, methods and knowledge-based engineering, multidisciplinary product management, sustainable product development, service-oriented design, product lifecycle management, and trends in CE. Containing papers ranging from the theoretical and conceptual to the highly pragmatic, this book will be of interest to all engineering professionals and practitioners, researchers, designers, and educators.
