Hughes,2013-08-02 As environmental problems become increasingly complex it is critical that students and activists learn the skills with which to address them Although there already are many case studies of actual issues only in the last few years have environmental scientists paid close attention to their resolution Environmental Problem Solving teaches these skills

Jeffrey W Hughes creates an organized method for approaching problems understanding larger issues and crafting solutions to a wide range of contemporary environmental issues Many environmental activists often have preconceived ideas of environmental protection and problem solving They react emotionally to news of deforestation a new housing development or a planned big box store without thinking about the problem logically and they may automatically regard foresters development companies and corporations as opponents As their views harden discourse turns acrimonious and it becomes ever more difficult to find satisfactory solutions This book teaches those on both sides of the table to address their own preconceptions and approach hard issues critically methodically and fairly Hughes combines aspects of the decision making process from the fields of business management and communication science based on extensive research and ample practical experience in the field and classroom He creates a logical framework to help guide thinking from identifying a problem to finding its solution Using examples drawn from real life situations Environmental Problem Solving will become an invaluable guide for environmentalists agency professionals consultants students naturalists and concerned citizens

Change, the Arrow of Time, and Divine Eternity in Light of Relativity Theory Daniel Saudek,2020-03-19 This book has two aims first to provide a new account of time s arrow in light of relativity theory second to explain how God being eternal relates to our world marked as it is by change and time In part one Saudek argues that time is not the expansive universal wave that is appears to be but nor are we living in an unchanging block Rather time is real but local there are infinitely many arrows of time in the universe each with their own fixed past and open future This model is based on the ontology of substances which can exist in different states marked by different properties On this basis a derivation of temporal precedence and of the asymmetry between the fixed past and the open future is provided Time s arrow is thus attached to substances and is therefore a local rather than global phenomenon though by no means an illusory or merely subjective one In part two this model is then applied to the perennial questions concerning the relationship between divine eternity and the temporal world How can my future choices be free if God already knows what I will do Can God act if He is not in time Through the lens of relativity theory such questions are shown to appear in a completely new light The book combines insights from theoretical physics with ancient and contemporary philosophy into a unique synthesis broaching a wealth of key issues including the arrow of time the evolution of the cosmos and a physics based defence of eternalism in philosophical theology
