

The Surprise Party

The Surprise Party At eight o'clock of the evening of my lucky birthday, I was alone at home grumbling and frowning, shouting furiously and pitying myself for my misfortune. I thought it was going to be a special day filled with presents and fun, but all I received was a "Happy Birthday". All of a sudden, the electricity cut off and there was a complete darkness in the house. I couldn't do anything therefore I decided to go to sleep and end this unlucky day. Out of the blue in that quiet night, I heard a sudden noise coming from downstairs.

I was startled and terribly shocked. I suspected that someone broke into the house. Immediately, I tried to phone my parents, but I had no answer. I phoned the police but my mobile was without credit! After a couple of minutes of fear, I started to calm down. Although in the meantime I heard more noises of people talking, I made some courage and started heading for the basement. As I slowly reached more and more the basement, I guessed there were more than one person, but I found it hard to believe.

There couldn't be a lot of people in our basement! Courageously, I opened the door of the basement. There was a complete darkness. There wasn't a single noise. However, as I approached, I heard some laughter and confirmed that there were people. All of a sudden, the lights were on and there were my parents and friends cheering at me. It was a surprise party!! On a table where there were the cake and the food, there were the precious presents that I wished for a long time.

Sex and Self-Ownership Jesse Wall,2025-06-21 Since the criminal law acquits a person who mistakenly believed that another person consented to the sex that they forced upon them rape is not prohibited it is regulated to borrow Mackinnon s phrase This book is concerned with the legal category of the exculpatory mistaken belief in consent why this category ought to be narrowed and how it can be narrowed without departing from criminal law s retributive morality and principles of criminalisation The book calls for three reforms of the criminal law First sex itself should be a pro tanto wrong where consent can justify the wrong or a mistaken belief in consent can excuse the wrong Second consent ought to be defined in terms of the objective words and overt actions that express a subjective attitude Third whether the defendant had an exculpatory mistaken belief ought to be determined solely by having regard to the steps the defendant had taken to ascertain whether the complainant consented These calls are predicated on a range of philosophical inquiries including explanations of how all sex instrumentalizes and objectifies another person how consent performs of trilogy of functions by representing a choice expressing a person s interests and by empowering a person to change their normative relationship with another person how a person can be blameworthy for acting against moral reasons even when they were unaware those reasons applied to their moral situation and how we can have a justified belief in the mental state of another person
