A Philosophy of Technology Peter Vermaas, Peter Kroes, Ibo van de Poel, Maarten Franssen, Wybo Houkes, 2022-05-31 In A Philosophy of Technology From Technical Artefacts to Sociotechnical Systems technology is analysed from a series of different perspectives The analysis starts by focussing on the most tangible products of technology called technical artefacts and then builds step wise towards considering those artefacts within their context of use and ultimately as embedded in encompassing sociotechnical systems that also include humans as operators and social rules like legislation Philosophical characterisations are given of technical artefacts their context of use and of sociotechnical systems Analyses are presented of how technical artefacts are designed in engineering and what types of technological knowledge is involved in engineering And the issue is considered how engineers and others can or cannot influence the development of technology These characterisations are complemented by ethical analyses of the moral status of technical artefacts and the possibilities and impossibilities for engineers to influence this status when designing artefacts and the sociotechnical systems in which artefacts are embedded The running example in the book is aviation where aeroplanes are examples of technical artefacts and the world aviation system is an example of a sociotechnical system Issues related to the design of quiet aeroplane engines and the causes of aviation accidents are analysed for illustrating the moral status of designing and the role of engineers therein Table of Contents Technical Artefacts Technical Designing Ethics and Designing Technological Knowledge Sociotechnical Systems The Role of Social Factors in Technological Development Ethics and Unintended Consequences of Technology

Training and Simulation Shem Malmquist, Dennis A. Vincenzi, Katherine Lemos, Shawn Pruchnicki, 2025-09-16 Developing training and simulation is a complex business From understanding human performance design usability and the limitations of training types to considerations with virtual reality VR producing realistic scenarios and even helping accident investigations leaves the practitioner with almost an overwhelming challenge. However, they know that their goal is to cut out developing methods that can train and test the sharp end professional to be ready for any eventuality, whether in the air, a chemical plant, or the operating room. Through chapters written by leading experts, this book aims to address the key questions and concerns when developing training and simulation in high risk industries. This book identifies unexplored challenges and weaknesses in the aviation domain, including ground based training and flight simulation compared to the real world of in flight complex aircraft operations, aviation accidents and incidents, airspace and air traffic control, aeronautical communications, air navigation, aircraft automation, and pilot certification and testing. These concerns are not just relevant to aviation, however. This book pushes beyond aviation to include other fields including petrochemical and medicine that, while on the surface are different, include some of the same human and organizational challenges. It integrates machine challenges with human factors science and includes a view of the corporate influences on training. Safety is a consideration in all the challenges and current limitations in training and simulation, and the book is written with the intention of improving both training and safety as industries deal with more and more complex advanced technology. Underpinned by case studies and real life examples, this book will give the reader a thorough overview of the limitations of current training methods but with a view to improving and developing better methods for future training scenarios. Opportunities and solutions are presented for current or future research and the application and incorporation of these in day to day operations. Training and Simulation Processes, Challenges and Solutions will appeal to practitioners of human factors, training pilots and ground operators, engineers involved in systems design, safety specialists, test evaluators, and accident investigators across multiple domains.

AIR CRASH INVESTIGATIONS, LOST OVER THE ATLANTIC The Crash of Air France Flight 447 THE FINAL REPORT George Cramoisi, editor, 2012-09-01 On 31 May 2009 the Airbus A330 flight AF 447 took off from Rio de Janeiro Galeão airport bound for Paris Charles de Gaulle At around 2 h 02 the Captain left the cockpit for a short nap At around 2 h 08 at flight level 350 the crew made a course change of 12 degrees to the left to avoid bad weather At 2h 10min 05 likely following the obstruction of the Pitot probes by ice crystals the speed indications were incorrect and some automatic systems disconnected The aeroplane's flight path was not controlled by the two copilots They were rejoined 1 minute 30 later by the Captain while the aeroplane was in a stall situation that lasted until the impact with the sea at 2 h 14 min 28 s killing all 228 persons on board It took almost two years to recover the wreck of the aircraft from a depth of 4 000 metres The accident resulted from a succession of events such as inconsistency between the measured airspeeds inappropriate control inputs and the crew's failure to diagnose the stall situation Airbus A320 Simulator Training Facundo Conforti, Aircraft simulators are an integral part of every pilot's professional life. Within these simulators, pilots learn to manage abnormal operations not just considering mechanical failures but any situation that could compromise flight safety. Airline pilots are required to demonstrate their performance in a simulator every six or twelve months depending on the airline. In these simulator sessions, pilots are evaluated not only on their maneuvers and flight management but also on teamwork, leadership, and decision-making abilities in extremely critical situations. Additionally, simulator sessions are instructional where an instructor provides specific training to each crew aiming to enhance their knowledge in managing abnormal operations. A simulator can become your best friend or your worst enemy depending on the approach you take. In this work, you will learn to give the simulator its rightful place and it will become your best ally as that is its ultimate purpose.

Detection and Estimation of Working Memory States and Cognitive Functions Based on Neurophysiological Measures Felix Putze, Christian Mühl, Fabien Lotte, Stephen Fairclough, Christian Herff, 2019-02-05. Executive cognitive functions like working memory determine the success or failure of a wide variety of different cognitive tasks such as problem solving, navigation, or planning. Estimation of constructs like working memory load or memory capacity from neurophysiological or psychophysiological signals would enable adaptive systems to respond to cognitive states experienced by an operator and trigger responses designed to support task performance, e.g., by simplifying the exercises of a tutor system when the subject is overloaded or by shutting down distractions from the mobile phone. The determination of cognitive states like working memory load is also useful for automated testing, assessment, or for usability evaluation. While there exists a large body of research work on neural and physiological correlates of cognitive functions like working memory activity, fewer publications deal with the application of this research with respect to single-trial detection and real-time estimation of cognitive functions in complex realistic scenarios. Single-trial classifiers based on brain activity measurements such as electroencephalography, functional near-infrared spectroscopy, physiological signals, or eye tracking have the potential to classify affective or cognitive states based upon short segments of data. For this purpose, signal processing and machine learning techniques need to be developed and transferred to real-world user interfaces. The goal of this Frontiers Research Topic was to advance the State of the Art in signal-based modeling of cognitive processes. We were especially interested in research towards more complex and realistic study designs, for example, collecting data in the wild or investigating the interaction between different cognitive processes or signal modalities. Bringing together many contributions in one format allowed us to look at the state of convergence or diversity regarding concepts, methods, and paradigms.

Aviation and Its Management Arif Sikander, 2019-05-22. Aviation has grown leaps and bounds within the last decade. Aviation courses and training at all levels have shown an exponential increase around the globe. There has been a restricted focus on writing books in this sector of the economy mainly due to the shortage of expertise in this specialist and complex area. This book was written with the purpose of meeting this need of the aviation sector. Due to the diversified nature of aviation knowledge which includes flying engineering airports allied trades for aircraft and airports airline and airport management and operations education etc one text alone will not suffice and do justice to address all these areas It is envisaged to develop subsequent parts of this book to cover all these knowledge areas This book is the first installment of any subsequent books and explores issues including airline management and operations airline business models airport systems flight operational procedures aircraft maintenance runway safety management systems and air traffic management In particular attention will be given to aspects such as analysis of air traffic in a domestic market runway safety management systems critical success factors for multiple MRO service providers key pain points of the industry to be addressed to move into the future new research on hub airports for international flights new business models for airlines and runway safety management systems This book is useful to aviation managers educators students and professionals interested in any of the above issues Human-Centered Design and User Experience Tareq Ahram and Christianne Falcão,2023-12-04 Proceedings of the AHFE International Conference on Human Factors in Design Engineering and Computing AHFE 2023 Hawaii Edition Honolulu Hawaii USA 4 6 December 2023
