Iranian Classical Music Laudan Nooshin, 2017-03-02 Questions of creativity and particularly the processes which underlie creative performance or improvisation form some of the central areas of interest in current musicology Yet the predominant discourses on which musicological thought in this area are based have rarely been challenged In this book Laudan Nooshin interrogates musicological discourses of creativity from the perspective of critical theory and postcolonial studies examining their ideological underpinnings the relationships of alterity which they sustain and the profound implications for our understanding of creative processes in music The repertoire which forms the book's main focus is Iranian classical music a tradition in which the performer plays a central creative role Addressing a number of issues regarding the nature of musical creativity the author explores both the discourses through which ideas about creativity are constructed exchanged and negotiated within this tradition and the practice by which new music comes into being For the latter she compares a number of performances by musicians playing a range of instruments and spanning a period of more than 30 years focusing on one particular section of repertoire dastg h Seg h and providing transcriptions of the performances as the basis for analytical exploration of the music's underlying compositional principles This book is about understanding musical creativity as a meaningful social practice It is the first to examine the ways in which ideas about tradition authenticity innovation and modernity in Iranian classical music form part of a wider social discourse on creativity and in particular how they inform debates regarding national and cultural identity

Russia's Own Orient Vera Tolz, 2011-02-10 Russia's Own Orient examines how intellectuals in early twentieth century Russia offered a new and radical critique of the ways in which Oriental cultures were understood at the time Out of the ferment of revolution and war a group of scholars in St Petersburg articulated fresh ideas about the relationship between power and knowledge and about Europe and Asia as mere political and cultural constructs Their ideas anticipated the work of Edward Said and post colonial scholarship by half a century The similarities between the two groups were in fact genealogical Said was indebted via Arab intellectuals of the 1960s who studied in the Soviet Union to the revisionist ideas of Russian Orientologists of the fin de siècle But why did this body of Russian scholarship of the early twentieth century turn out to be so innovative Should we agree with a popular claim of the Russian elites about their country's particular affinity with the Orient There is no single answer to this question The early twentieth century was a period when all over Europe a fascination with things Oriental engendered the questioning of many nineteenth century assumptions and prejudices In that sense the revisionism of Russian Orientologists was part of a pan European trend And yet Tolz also argues that a set of political social and cultural factors which were specific to Russia allowed its imperial scholars to engage in an unusual dialogue with representatives of the empire's non European minorities It is together that they were able to articulate a powerful long lasting critique of modern imperialism and colonialism and to shape ethnic politics in Russia across the divide of the 1917 revolutions

On Nabokov, Ayn Rand and the Libertarian Mind Gene H. Bell-Villada, 2014-07-08 On Nabokov Ayn Rand and the Libertarian Mind not only conjoins two seemingly divergent authors but also takes on the larger picture of libertarian trends and ideologies These timely topics further intermingle with Bell Villada's own conflicted relationship personal cultural satirical literary to the odd pair and their ways of thinking The inclusion of Louis Begley's essay adds yet another dimension to this unique wide ranging meditation on art and politics history and memory

Information and Empire Simon Franklin, Katherine Bowers, 2017-11-27 From the mid sixteenth to the mid nineteenth century Russia was transformed from a moderate sized land locked principality into the largest empire on earth How did systems of information and communication shape and reflect this extraordinary change Information and Mechanisms of Communication in Russia 1600-1850 brings together a range of contributions to shed some light on this complex question Communication networks such as the postal service and the gathering and circulation of news are examined alongside the growth of a bureaucratic apparatus that informed the government about its country and its people The inscription of space is considered from the point of view of mapping and the changing public graphosphere of signs and monuments More than a series of institutional histories this book is concerned with the way Russia discovered itself envisioned itself and represented itself to its people Innovative and scholarly this collection breaks new ground in its approach to communication and information as a field of study in Russia More broadly it is an accessible contribution to pre modern information studies taking as its basis a country whose history often serves to challenge habitual Western models of development It is important reading not only for specialists in Russian Studies but also for students and non Russianists who are interested in the history of information and communications
