A Taste Of Power English Edition:

A Taste of Power Katharina Vester, 2015-10-02 A Taste of Power is an investigation of the crucial role culinary texts and practices played in the making of cultural identities and social hierarchies since the founding of the United States. Nutritional advice and representations of food and eating including cookbooks, literature, magazines, newspapers, still life paintings, television shows, films, and the internet have helped throughout American history to circulate normative claims about citizenship, gender, performance, sexuality, class, privilege, race, and ethnicity while promising an increase in cultural capital and social mobility to those who comply with the prescribed norms. The study examines culinary writing and practices as forces for the production of social order and at the same time as points of cultural resistance against hegemonic norms, especially in shaping dominant ideas of nationalism, gender, and sexuality, suggesting that eating right is a gateway to becoming an American, a good citizen, an ideal man, or a perfect mother. Cookbooks as a low prestige literary form became the largely unheralded vehicles for women to participate in nation building before they had access to the vote or public office for middle class authors to assert their class privileges for men to claim superiority over women even in the kitchen and for lesbian authors to reinscribe themselves into the heteronormative economy of culinary culture. The book engages in close reading of a wide variety of sources and genres to uncover the intersections of food, politics, and privilege in American culture. Provided by publisher.

A Taste of Power Elaine Brown, 2022-02-24 The incredible memoir of Elaine Brown, the first woman leader of the Black Panthers. Here I was a woman proclaiming supreme power over the most militant organization in America. In 1974 Elaine Brown became the first woman leader of the Black Panther Party. This is her unforgettable memoir charting her rise from an impoverished neighbourhood in Philadelphia through her political awakening during a bohemian adolescence and on to her time as a foot soldier for the Panthers and ascent into its male dominated upper ranks. It is a seminal exploration of power, racism, and one woman's revolutionary struggle. Heart wrenching, wild, and moving, a glowing achievement. Los Angeles Times. What Elaine Brown writes is so astonishing at times it is even difficult to believe she survived it. And yet she did, bringing us that amazing light of the black woman's magical resilience. Alice Walker.

A Taste for China Eugenia Zuroski Jenkins, 2013-05-23 A Taste for China offers an account of how literature of the long eighteenth century generated a model of English selfhood dependent on figures of China. It shows how various genres of writing in this period call upon things Chinese to define the tasteful English subject of modernity. Chinoiserie is no mere exotic curiosity in this culture but a potent multivalent sign of England's participation in a cosmopolitan world order.

The Taste of Power Ladislav Mňačko, 1967 Private and public life of a Communist statesman in Czechoslovakia who is entirely corrupted by power.

English Sea Power in the Early Tudor Period, 1485-1558 Elaine W. Fowler, 1979 Folger guides provide lively authoritative surveys of important aspects of sixteenth and seventeenth century English cultural history. Attractively illustrated with material from contemporary documents, the Guides are designed for the general reader and are particularly valuable as enrichment resources for courses in Renaissance history and literature

Fictions of Power in English Literature

Lee Horsley, 2016-07-01 As a result of its imperial role Britain was closely involved with such romantic and disruptive myths of power such as the imperial adventure hero and the self-deified charismatic leader Lee Horsley explores fictional representations of political power during this period surveying a wide range of texts from the adventure story romance thriller and science fiction to the novels of Conrad Huxley Orwell and Greene

A Taste for Gardening

Lisa Taylor, 2016-03-16 Is the garden a consumption site where identities are constructed Do gardeners make aesthetic choices according to how they are positioned by class and gender This book presents the first scholarly analysis of the relationship between media interest in gardening and cultural identities With an examination of aesthetic dispositions as a symbolic mode of communication closely aligned to people's identities and drawing on ethnographic data gathered from encounters with gardeners this book maps a typology of gardening taste revealing that gardening how plants are chosen planted and cared for is a classed and gendered practice manifested in specific types of visual aesthetics This timely and original book develops a new area within cultural studies while contributing to debates about lifestyle and lifestyle media consumption class and methodology A must read for anybody concerned with or intrigued by the cultural construction of identification practices
