Environmental Studies Dr. Hage Asha, Dr. Hage Yakang, Dr. Jacob Ngukir and Dr. Hage Assung, 2025-09-08

Environmental Studies as an academic discipline plays a crucial role in understanding the intricate relationships between humans and the natural world. In the face of growing environmental challenges, climate change, biodiversity loss, resource depletion, and pollution, there is a pressing need to equip young learners with the knowledge and sensitivity required to make informed decisions and contribute to sustainable living.

E-Book Ophthalmic Drugs Graham Hopkins, Richard M.

Pearson, 2006-10-12. Completely updated and revised, this classic book provides the essential information on ocular therapeutics for the modern optometrist. Retaining all the features that made previous editions so popular, the new fifth edition continues to provide a basic grounding in pharmacological principles and drug types before moving on to illustrate the scope of ocular therapeutics in the management of common acute conditions affecting the anterior segment of the eye. Throughout the text, there are numerous new clinical notes and ready reference tables making for greater ease of use than ever before. Greatly expanded text including an illustrated section on ocular disease and its treatment. New drugs included, processes and procedures updated and revised. Now all completely redesigned in full colour throughout. Features ready reference tables and clinical notes. Completely updated and revised to reflect modern practice. Clinically orientated and appropriate for the practitioner as well as the student. Written by experts with years of practical experience in teaching and training as well as dispensing these essential preparations. Includes a new chapter describing therapeutic uses of drugs illustrated with 18 colour plates.

Integrated Pest Management David Pimentel, Rajinder Peshin, 2014-04-10

The book deals with the present state and problems of integrated pest management as relating to stakeholder acceptance of IPM and how integrated pest management can become a sustainable practice. The discussions include using less pesticides and the possibility of eliminating pesticides from agricultural practice.

The Ballad of the Lone Medievalist Kisha G. Tracy, John P. Sexton, 2018. Working medievalists are often the only scholar of the Middle Ages in a department, a university, or a hundred-mile radius. While working to build a body of focused scholarly work, the lone medievalist is expected to be a generalist in the classroom and a contributing member of a campus community that rarely offers disciplinary community in return. As a result, overtasked and single medievalists often find it challenging to advocate for their work and field. As other responsibilities and expectations crowd in, we come to feel disconnected from the projects and subjects that sustain our intellectual passion. An insidious isolation even from one another creeps in, and soon even attending a conference of fellow medievalists can become a lonely experience. Surrounded by scholars with greater institutional support, lower teaching loads, or more robust research agendas, we may feel alienated from our work, the work to which we've dedicated our careers. The Lone Medievalist the collaborative community, and the book is intended as an antidote to the problem of professional isolation. It is offered in the spirit of common weal that marks the ideals, if not always the realities, of so many of the communities we study: agricultural, professional, national, notional, and of course monastic. The Ballad of the Lone Medievalist isn't only about scholarship or teaching or institutional life or the pursuit of new learning it's about all of them. The essays in this volume address all aspects of the professional and intellectual life of medievalists. Though many of us acknowledge and address the challenges in being Lone Medievalists, these essays are not intended as voces clamantium; they are offered to provide strategies, camaraderie, and an occasional bit of inspiration. They are a call to action, a sharing of hard-won wisdom, and a helping hand, and above all, a reminder that we are not alone.
