

Label the Digestive System #1

Human Anatomy

Read the definitions below, then label the digestive system anatomy diagram.

anus - the opening at the end of the digestive system from which feces exit the body.

appendix - a small sac located near the start of the large intestine.

esophagus - the long tube between the mouth and the stomach. It uses rhythmic muscle movements (called peristalsis) to force food from the throat into the stomach.

gall bladder - a small, sac-like organ located by the duodenum. It stores and releases bile (a digestive chemical which is produced in the liver) into the small intestine.

large intestine - the long, wide tube that food goes through after it goes through the small intestine.

liver - a large organ located above and in front of the stomach. It filters toxins from the blood, and makes bile (which breaks down fats) and some blood proteins.

mouth - the first part of the digestive system, where food enters the body. Chewing and salivary enzymes in the mouth are the beginning of the digestive process (breaking down the food).

pancreas - an enzyme-producing gland located below the stomach and above the intestines. Enzymes from the pancreas help in the digestion of carbohydrates, fats and proteins in the small intestine.

rectum - the lower part of the large intestine, where feces are stored before they are excreted from the body.

small intestine - the long, thin winding tube that food goes through after it leaves the stomach.

stomach - a sack-like, muscular organ that is attached to the esophagus. When food enters the stomach, it is churned in an acid bath.

The Digestive System Michael Windelspecht, 2004-08-30 Examines the role and function of the human digestive system

The Big Slide Nicholas F. Prayson, Richard A. Prayson, 2015 The human digestive system plays an important role in processing food in order to provide nutrients that the body can use This well illustrated text presents the basics of anatomy physiology and disease of the human digestive system by answering a series of questions relevant to the various components of this system For example in studying the stomach the following questions are examined 1 Where is the stomach located 2 What does the stomach look like 3 What does the stomach do 4 Where do gastric juices come from 5 What causes ulcers 6 What causes a stomach ache and 7 What causes burping Additionally most chapters are filled with unusual trivia related to the part of the body being discussed For example there was a 42 year old woman who complained of mild abdominal pain and had 2533 objects removed from her stomach including 947 pins The text provides a fun and interesting way to learn more about the digestive system The text is ideal whether you are looking for an entertaining and informative read on the workings of the human digestive tract or looking for a text or resource for biology or health classes Guts John Edward Morton, 1975
