

REASONS FOR AMERICAN IMPERIALISM

Introduction: Expansion has always been a part of America's history. At first, expansion headed towards the Pacific within North America. In the 1700's and 1800's, European nations began practicing imperialism, which is one people ruling over or controlling others. Initially, Americans did not look to take over other countries. Having been colonists themselves, many Americans were against it. America also feared that foreign involvement would bring the country into a war. However, attitudes began to change in the late 1800's as America began to look to the Pacific. Use the chart below to answer the questions.

1 Philip S. Foner,1972 This major work by Philip Foner the well known historian has as its chief object the re definition of the conflict known in the U S historiography as the Spanish American war This very name in his view reflects the bias of two generations of historians who relegated Cuba to the passive position of a prize in a struggle between Spain and the United States It is his contention that the Cuban nation by virtue of its prolonged and successful rebellion of 1895 1898 treated in Vol 1 was a central protagonist of the conflict its role ending when it was subjected to neocolonial status by the United States In pursuing this new outlook Professor Foner studied the sources available in the United States the rich materials in the Archivo Nacional and the Library of the City Historian in Havana and enlisted help and documentary evidence furnished by the leading historians and historical institutes of Cuba These sources have enabled him to deal at length with the occupation and subjugation of Cuba by the United States and reconstruct the story in richer detail and in a more realistic interpretation than has ever been done before Volume II begins with the war in Cuba after U S intervention in 1898 and covers the imposition of U S domination of Cuba through the Platt Amendment which marked the beginning of American neocolonialism
