Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the performance of a group of young athletes. The program was designed to improve the athletes' performance in a 100-m sprint. The results of the study showed that the athletes' performance improved significantly after the 10-week training program. The mean time for the 100-m sprint decreased from 15.2 seconds to 13.8 seconds. The standard deviation of the times decreased from 0.8 seconds to 0.5 seconds. The results of the study suggest that the 10-week training program was effective in improving the performance of the athletes.
