Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical and psychological health of young adults. The study was conducted in a university setting. The participants were 20 young adults (10 males and 10 females) who were randomly assigned to either a training group or a control group. The training group participated in a 12-week program of aerobic and strength training, while the control group did not. The results of the study showed that the training group had significantly higher levels of physical fitness and psychological well-being than the control group at the end of the 12-week period. The findings suggest that a 12-week training program can have a positive effect on the physical and psychological health of young adults.
