Medications Michael R. Sperling, 2022-09-30 Approximately 10% of the general population will experience at least one seizure within their lifetimes in most Western countries and even higher rates are observed in developing countries. However, not all individuals go on to develop epilepsy, which is characterized by recurring epileptic seizures. The prevalence of epilepsy is 7.1 cases per 1,000 people, ranging from 4.0 to 8.9, and its incidence is 47.4 cases per 100,000 people per year worldwide. Kotsopoulos et al 2002, Hirtz et al 2007. An epileptic seizure is the transient occurrence of signs or symptoms due to abnormal excessive hypersynchronous firing of neurons in the brain. The practical clinical definition of epilepsy proposed by the International League Against Epilepsy (ILAE) considers epilepsy to be a disease of the brain defined by any of the following conditions: 1. at least two unprovoked or reflex seizures occurring 24 hours apart; 2. one unprovoked or reflex seizure and a probability of further seizures similar to the general recurrence risk after two unprovoked seizures, at least 60% occurring over the next 10 years; and 3. diagnosis of an epilepsy syndrome. Fisher et al 2014. Epilepsy may be due to genetic causes, possessing an inherited trait, brain tumors, infections, meningitis, or encephalitis, brain trauma, stroke, developmental anomalies (e.g., cortical dysplasia, brain malformations, tuberous sclerosis, neurofibromatosis, vascular malformations, arteriovenous malformations) and other causes.
