Critic and Literary World ,1885 Forms of Life Martin Price,1983-01-01 The novel contains imagined lives that achieve a kind of meaning and intensity our own lives do not Out of the novelist s moral imagination the breadth and depth of his awareness of human motivations tensions and complexities emerge fictional persons through whom we learn to read ourselves This eloquent book exploring fictional lives in crucial moments of choice and change stresses both their difference from and their deep connections with life Martin Price writes here about ways in which character has been conceived and presented in the novels of the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries Beginning with chapters that cogently argue the artistic value of character Price then deals with the different forms character has taken in individual novels His first discussions center on authors Jane Austen Stendhal Charles Dickens George Eliot and Leo Tolstoy who define individuals by their adherence or opposition to social norms The next chapters deal with novelists for whom the moral world is largely internalized The characters of Henry James Joseph Conrad D H Lawrence and E M Forster live in society and act upon it but the authors are particularly concerned with the confusions terrors and heroism that lie within consciousness The last chapter uses novels about the artist by James Joyce Virginia Woolf and Thomas Mann in order to apprehend the process by which experience is transformed into art Avoiding both formalistic and moralistic extremes this new book by a distinguished critic helps us recover a fuller sense of literary form and the forms of life from which it emerges Planning and Ecology R. D. Roberts,T. M. Roberts,2013-11-11 Professional planning is commonly defined as an activity which is concerned with the rational allocation or exploitation of resources for man s maximum short and long term benefit The science of ecology is the study of the basic components of these resources soil water air etc and their inter relationships with living organisms

Planning and ecology therefore have many common interests and as such have long been associated in resource management. This association was for example reflected as early as the 19th century in the writings of Patrick Geddes the progenitor of modern town planning whose training as a biologist led him to re interpret the phenomena of urbanization in ecological terms Geddes 1886. Since the time of Geddes the place of ecology has declined in planning circles as other professions and considerations initially public health and engineering latterly economic and sociological have become more central. The reasons for this shifting emphasis are three fold. First they reflect changing social attitudes and aspirations in the post war period. Secondly many other professions and persuasions agriculturalists foresters industrialists etc became organized as pressure groups and helped shape public attitudes and governmental actions. Thirdly and by far the most important reason is the prevalence of misconceptions about ecology. Too many people perhaps misled by the debate surrounding the environmental movement equate ecology with conservation. In reality conservation is but one component part of ecology.
