The ancient Chinese were also skilled in the art of making pottery. They created beautiful ceramics that were not only functional but also works of art. Many of these ancient Chinese pottery pieces are still admired and studied today.

In addition to their inventions, the ancient Chinese also made significant advancements in medicine. They believed in the balance of yin and yang in the body and used herbal remedies to treat illnesses. Acupuncture, a practice where thin needles are inserted into the skin at specific points, was also developed in ancient China.

Rošker, 2013-01-04 Specific Chinese models for theories of knowledge were premised upon a structurally ordered external reality since natural or cosmic order is organic it naturally follows the flow of structural patterns and operates in accordance with structural principles that regulate every existence In this worldview our mind is also structured in accordance with this all embracing but open organic system The axioms of our recognition and thought are therefore not arbitrary but follow this rationally designed structure The compatibility of both the cosmic and mental structures is the basic precondition that enables humans to perceive and recognize external reality The present study shows that this paradigm of structural epistemology can already be found in the earliest Chinese theories of knowledge The introduction of Chinese models and their incorporation into Western discourses fills an important theoretical gap in the Western model of structuralism This book offers an insight into epistemological systems that arose outside the discourses of the Euro American tradition It can thus help us to eliminate and supersede certain culturally conditioned prejudices as to the superiority and omnipresence of Western theoretical models while demonstrating incontrovertibly that the results of Western discourses are by no means the only force driving theoretical innovation at the present time

Searching for the Way Jana Rošker, 2008

The search for knowledge has been the driving force behind mankind's existence since the dawn of civilization and different cultures have developed their own theories of knowledge. Searching for the Way: Theory of Knowledge in Premodern and Modern China deals with the analyses and interpretations of modern Chinese philosophical discourses especially those concerning theories of knowledge. The author looks at how contemporary Chinese philosophy is awakening from a long slumber and substantiates the hypothesis that this new awakening is fully prepared for fruitful confrontations with the new challenges presented by a globalized world. The study of 20th century Chinese philosophy has not been the subject of any extensive and systematic discussion in neither the West in general nor in Western Sinology in particular. Hence this book will be of immense interest to those who are interested in the emerging fields of comparative philosophy, Chinese studies and theology.
