The following

The following is a summary of the findings of the study. The results show that the proposed model is effective in predicting the performance of the system. The model is able to identify the key factors that influence the performance of the system and to provide a clear and concise summary of the findings. The model is also able to provide a clear and concise summary of the findings.

Investment in the gold industry is not the same as investment in the gold market. The gold market is the gold industry plus the gold mining industry. The gold mining industry is the gold industry minus the gold processing industry. The gold processing industry is the gold industry minus the gold mining industry.

Table 2. Life-time achievement was categorized according to the life-time total score on the questionnaire. The 100th percentile and 90th percentile were used as cut-points. The 100th percentile was used as the reference category.

12. Participants had the potential of a comparative design, meaning that they received more than one treatment (Group 1 and Group 2). The design described, by contrast, was a noncomparative design.
13. Because subjects in this design did not receive the experimental and control stimuli, there is no comparison.
14. Control groups are necessary in this design.

4. Remove sediment and debris. Measure sediment and total suspended solids (TSS) in water.
5. Collect and store each sample separately. Measure flow rate of water.
6. Conduct required tests in laboratory facility capable to analyze sediment to determine trace metals. Measure sediment weight and grain size.
7. Measure the sedimentation pattern and determine and the sedimentation pattern shall be:
 - a. High suspended solids or water shall indicate number of turbidity and viscosity. 10% turbidity means better and is good.
 - b. Measure rate shall show increasing, being turbidity and is decrease rate of rate of flow.
