Adams,2007-12-20 I recall during my early years as a clinical psychologist being asked by hospital staff to speak with a 32 year old man addicted to alcohol who was being discharged following treatment for pancreatitis This had been his third admission for the same illness and hospital practitioners were exasperated by his choice to continue drinking despite being repeatedly told it would cause irreparable damage to his pancreas from which he would be unlikely to survive I met him in a side room on the ward He sat in his pyjamas in the corner of the room thin and ashen looking with a worried frown fixed across his face Our conversation was initially stilted and I was trying hard not to replicate the lectures and sermons he was likely to have already received from hospital staff As we talked I was able to piece together bits of information about his current circumstances he lived alone he was unemployed and his only family contact was with a brother who visited to check on him occasionally He started to relax into the conversation and then talked about his long struggles with alcohol his drinking had begun in his early teens it had provided him with confidence and friendships he had had some serious motor vehicle accidents he had tried to stop drinking but soon continued he had lost friends jobs and family relationships and in response he had increasingly sought intoxication as a refuge
