

Alliteration Poem

Alliteration is the repetition of the first consonant sound in words. You can use these sentences to create a poem. Good examples are tongue twister such as:

Peter Piper picked a pack of pickled peppers

She sells sea shells by the sea shore

Leo the Lion

Leo the lion loved the outdoors,
He had four very mighty paws.

Leo liked the little lightening bugs at night,
During the day they were out of sight.

Ann Terry, 1974 Creating Cultures of Thinking Ron Ritchhart, 2015-03-09 Discover why and how schools must become places where thinking is valued visible and actively promoted As educators parents and citizens we must settle for nothing less than environments that bring out the best in people take learning to the next level allow for great discoveries and propel both the individual and the group forward into a lifetime of learning This is something all teachers want and all students deserve In Creating Cultures of Thinking The 8 Forces We Must Master to Truly Transform Our Schools Ron Ritchhart author of Making Thinking Visible explains how creating a culture of thinking is more important to learning than any particular curriculum and he outlines how any school or teacher can accomplish this by leveraging 8 cultural forces: expectations, language, time, modeling, opportunities, routines, interactions, and environment. With the techniques and rich classroom vignettes throughout this book, Ritchhart shows that creating a culture of thinking is not about just adhering to a particular set of practices or a general expectation that people should be involved in thinking. A culture of thinking produces the feelings, energy, and even joy that can propel learning forward and motivate us to do what at times can be hard and challenging mental work.

Living Literature Wendy C. Kasten, Janice V. Kristo, Amy A. McClure, Abigail Garthwait, 2005. This is the ideal book to help prospective teachers improve children's reading and language arts skills and instill in them a genuine and lasting love of reading. The book demonstrates numerous ways to integrate literature into the daily fabric of classroom life. Following a solid grounding in the basics, every reading teacher needs individual chapters explore genres of children's literature and teaching strategies specific to each genre. Then the authors examine currently accepted effective practices for engaging young readers in hands-on reading in a way that fosters a love of literature that will last a lifetime.

Early childhood and elementary education literature and language arts teachers Instructor, 2003. Personalizing the High School Experience for Each Student Joseph DiMartino, John H. Clarke, 2008-04-21. Why is it that so many students see high school as a prison sentence to be endured rather than a time to learn and grow? According to DiMartino and Clark, many high school students feel invisible and isolated. They don't see the relevance of what they are being taught and they don't see how their classes are preparing them for success as adults. This book offers a new vision for high schools: a vision that puts students at the center of their learning. Personalized high schools engage students by allowing them to plan and develop their own pathways through school based on their talents, interests, and aspirations. The book describes six promising practices that are emerging in high schools:

- Guided Personalized Learning: Teachers act as advisors to small groups of students over two to six years to review personal learning plans, assist in course selection, and discover opportunities in the community.
- Personal Learning Plans: Students meet regularly with parents, advisors, mentors, and peers to review progress and plan next steps.
- Personalized Teaching: Teachers differentiate instruction to allow students to explore different aspects of the subject and produce authentic work that shows their understanding.
- Community Based Learning: Active involvement in the community helps clarify a student's purpose and defines the steps necessary to achieve successful adult roles.
- Personalized Assessment: Rather than grades and tests, scores, the work itself, portfolios, exhibitions, and student-led conferences show what the students have learned.
- Personalizing school systems: Some schools are moving past the Carnegie unit and focusing instead on helping each student achieve specified competencies, often through learning experiences that the students themselves have helped design.

These six practices can improve learning for all students by engaging them in shaping their own high school experience and discovering how the academic skills they learn in school can have meaning in the world they will negotiate as
