Syllabus

Spring 2008

Mr. Burns

Course Objectives

The purpose of this course is to help students “write effectively and confidently in their college courses across the curriculum and in their professional and personal lives” (The College Board, AP English Course Description, May 2007, p. 6). The course is organized according to the requirements and guidelines of the current AP English Course Description, and, therefore, students are expected to read critically, think analytically, and communicate clearly both in writing and speech. To prepare students for the new documented essay this spring, the course teaches, “students to read primary and secondary sources carefully, to synthesize material from these texts in their own compositions, and to cite sources using conventions recommended by professional organizations such as the Modern Language Association (MLA)” (AP English Course Description).

The course focuses on the rhetoric of the essay, beginning with narrative and descriptive writing and culminating with argument and persuasion. Students employ narration and description in the fall to write their college essays. From there, they learn how division and classification, comparison and contrast, cause and effect, process analysis, and definition work together to form analytical thinking and writing. Students draw on these skills to write formal argument and to synthesize their thoughts into evaluation essays.

Concurrent with their focus on writing, students focus on reading. Using close reading techniques, students increase their awareness of an author’s purpose, the needs of an audience, the demands of the subject, and the resources of language: syntax, word choice, and tone. As they amplify their awareness of the nuances of language, students increase their grasp of the rhetoric of argument.

Style

Style is a major component of writing. Students study aspects of style within the context of the essays they read. They are asked to observe the power of constructions like the appositive phrase, the participial phrase, and the absolute phrase. They need to recognize and be able to use the following aspects of style: parallelism, antithesis, anastrophe, parenthesis, ellipsis, alliteration, anaphora, chiasmus, metaphor, simile, synecdoche, metonymy, personification, litotes, oxymoron, and paradox.

The Writing Process

Students generate ideas for writing by doing free-writes and using circle maps and bubble maps. They use the Venn diagram for comparative work, tree maps for classifying, and flow maps for cause/effect sequencing. Student use detail charts to structure essays. The Argument and Persuasion Detail Chart, for example, illustrates for student a system for argument that moves from background on a topic to the negative claim, followed by the

This history and analysis of the education system is an essential primer for parents teachers and school administrators as well as parent teacher organizations education majors education administration majors the media politicians and everyone who wants to see American schools do a better job The author considers the genesis of public schools in the United States various aspects of public education systems from elementary school through university trends in education and reform and issues that still need to be addressed The book contains information about public and private organizations think tanks institutions and governmental bodies involved in public education reform The book shows the deficiency of the existing education system and compares it to more efficient systems The author shows that most of the existing approaches to improve education are based on the same foolish idea that as long as government spending on education is great enough the improvement will follow The bond between education and politics hinders progress in education The problems facing schools as well as the recommended solutions are considered The author cites multiple research attempts to improve the functioning of the existing education system that have still failed to bring any tangible results He uses his specialized knowledge to explain what should be done for educational progress to become reality
