

Short Answer Questions

Question 1

Organizations pursuing change take the business environment into account as they seek to achieve effective business performance. But is that alone all that matters in an organization's changing future?

- a. It is because organizations are important administrative systems in their own right, and not only those by the business. These administrative organizations are designed to achieve their own strategic objectives for meeting their customers and clients and "they matter" independently of business success.
- b. It is because the organizations are in business markets. These are markets designed and administered with the intention to provide value to those in the market and participate in the market.
- c. The business organization is based on relationships with suppliers, clients, and other actors. The only organization and administration are the business and a market organization.
