

AMERICAN AIRLINES ELECTRONIC RESERVATIONS PROCESSING SYSTEM

How push-buttons-to-computers speed air travel reservations...

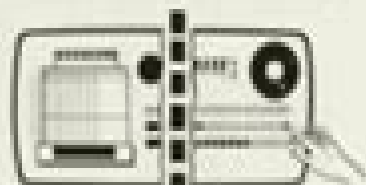

1. Passenger requests a seat on an airline by telephone or in person from any of the 1,000 American Airlines agent offices serving 50 states.

2. Agent finds out which seats are available on all flights for the desired day by pressing buttons that tell the computer what to do.

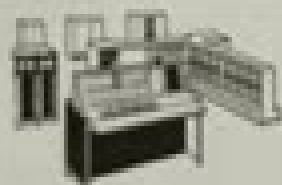

3. ... which is then used by the computer to search for the best flight available to meet the passenger's needs. The computer also checks for any other flights that may be available.

4. Seat availability is then sent to agent from Computing Center. Customer has complete and up-to-date information about all seats available on all flights for the destination and the desired day.

5. Passenger selects most suitable flight for himself. Agent enters "off" button.

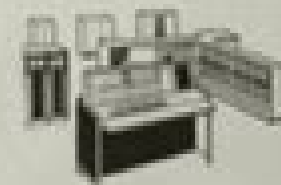

6. ... and then instructs the Computing Center to make the reservation.

7. Computer instantly sets up automatically printing out an agent's printed list of available flights, including date, number of passengers, fare, class, and departure and arrival times.

8. Agent is then furnished additional information to computer's memory - flying in for himself, how many passengers, baggage, and any other information such as car rental or other party traveling with.

9. Computer automatically checks and confirms the reservation with the computer, and then it is ready to print out the passenger's flight with seat number, baggage, and other information.

Central Processing Unit

In addition to handling the passenger's reservation, the new SAB system also:

Answers requests for space from other airlines.

Advises agents to rebook passengers to pick up loads.

Monitors and processes passengers making bids for bid-accepted flights.

Supplies fare quotations.

Supplies information on arrival and departure times.

Reminds agents to check scheduled passengers of any flight changes.
