Alternatives for modernizing U.S. fighter forces: A CBO Study David Alan Arthur, 2009 The United States Air Force Navy and Marine Corps have long maintained tactical fighter forces that provide capabilities for air to air combat and air to ground attack The three services are in the process of replacing the bulk of today's fighter aircraft most of which were purchased in the 1980s with new F/A-18E/F, F-22 and F-35 Joint Strike Fighter aircraft Although current procurement plans call for the purchase of about 2,500 aircraft over the next 25 years the services are projecting that those purchases will not keep pace with the need to retire today's aircraft as they reach the limit of their service life The study also compares the advantages disadvantages and costs of seven alternative approaches that DoD might adopt to modernize its fighter forces three that satisfy today's inventory requirements two that maintain aggregate weapons capacity with fewer aircraft and two that replace portions of the fighter force with longer range aircraft In keeping with CBO's mandate to provide objective impartial analysis this study makes no recommendations     Handbook of Exotic Pet Medicine Marie Kubiak, 2020-11-09 highlighting Tips Tricks and Pitfalls as well as advice on Complications Management Many chapters are enriched by providing clinical case scenarios an important educational resource including self assessment questionnaires The Lancet: Surgery 2012 The Lancet,2012-12-15 A themed collection from The Lancet dedicated to traumatic injury and surgery The first Article presents new estimates of death following general surgery The Europe wide study finds death rates after surgery are double that of previous estimates According to the second Article survival after a general anaesthetic and within 48 hours of surgery has greatly improved worldwide over the past 50 years An accompanying Comment calls for application of effective perioperative practices to under resourced settings New research published in the third Article on surgery suggests that the millions of intravenous catheters used each year can be safely changed only when clinically necessary overturning 40 years of accepted practice Also in this collection a three part series on trauma surgery reviews recent progress and challenges in the management of acute trauma care in haemorrhagic shock traumatic brain injury and major musculoskeletal injury The Series not only reveals progress in the understanding of genomic proteomic and physiological changes related to severe injury and of the response to resuscitation and surgery but also presents global initiatives to address shortcomings in previous approaches to trauma research An associated Comment urges for research so that injured people can benefit from the sorts of research based advances that have transformed other fields of healthcare The Lancet commissions Series and themed issues to highlight clinically important topics and areas of health and medicine that are pertinent to physicians practice They are groups of two or three articles which provide pathophysiology basic science and genomic insights as well as practical up to date clinical information on a variety of important or neglected disorders Cancer-Associated Defects in the DNA Damage Response: Drivers for Malignant Transformation and Potential Therapeutic Targets Marcel van Vugt,H. Christian Reinhardt,2016-10-17 For this eBook and the associated Research Topic in Frontiers in Genetics entitled Cancer associated defects in the DNA damage response drivers for malignant transformation and potential therapeutic targets we have selected 10 papers that each discusses important yet distinct aspects of the response to DNA damage in normal cells and cancer cells Using an evolutionary conserved signaling network called the DNA damage response DDR cells maintain the integrity of their genome and thus safeguard cellular functioning and the ability to create viably progeny Initially the DDR appeared to consist of few linear kinase driven pathways However research over the past decades in model organisms as well as in the human system has revealed that the DDR is a complex signaling network wired by multiple parallel pathways and displaying extensive crosstalk Besides phosphorylation multiple other post translational modifications including ubiquitination and sumoylation are involved to achieve chromatin remodeling and initiation of DNA repair Also rather than being a cell intrinsic phenomenon we increasingly appreciate that cell cell communication is involved The recognition and repair of DNA damage is essential to maintain normal physiology Multiple pathological conditions have been attributed to defective DNA repair most notably accelerated aging neurodegeneration and cancer In the context of cancer through repair of DNA damage or elimination of irreparably damaged cells the DDR clearly has a tumor suppressive role. Indeed many tumor cells show partially inactivated DDR signaling which allows proliferation in the context of DNA damage inducing oncogenes. Simultaneously loss of specific DDR signaling nodes creates a specific dependence of tumor cells on their remaining DDR components and thus creates therapeutic opportunities. Especially in the context of cancer treatment numerous targeted agents are under investigation either to potentiate the cytotoxic effects of chemo radiotherapy or to induce synthetic lethality with cancer specific alterations with the treatment of BRCA1/2 mutant cancers with PARP1 inhibitors as a prototype example. We have selected four review articles that provide insight into the key components and the wiring of the DDR and DNA repair. Torgovnick and Schumacher review the involvement of DNA repair in the initiation and treatment of cancer. Brinkmann et al describe the involvement of ubiquitination in DNA damage signaling and Jaiswal and Lindqvist discuss how cell extrinsic signaling participates in communication of DNA damage to neighboring cells. In addition Shatneyeva and colleagues review the connection between the cellular response to DNA damage and escape from immune surveillance. Concerning the therapeutic application of targeting the DDR and DNA repair three articles were included. Krajewska and van Vugt review the wiring of homologous recombination and how this offers therapeutic opportunities. Additionally Knittel and colleagues describe how genetic loss of the central DDR component ATM in chronic lymphocytic leukemia can be exploited therapeutically by targeting certain parallel DNA repair pathways. Syljuasen and colleagues report on how targeting of the DDR can be used as a therapeutic strategy in lung cancer. Finally three chapters describe newly identified regulators of the cellular response to DNA damage. Von Morgen et al describe the R2TP complex. Lezzi and Fanciluuli review the involvement of Che 1 AATF in the DDR and Ohms and co authors describe how retrotransposons are at the basis of increased genomic instability. Altogether these articles describe how defective responses to DNA damage underlie disease and especially in the context of cancer can be exploited to better treat disease.
