Hagios Charalambos Philip P. Betancourt, 2014-12-31 This is the first of five planned volumes to present the primary archaeological report about the excavation of the cave of Hagios Charalambos in eastern Crete The Minoans used this small cavern as an ossuary for the secondary burial of human remains and grave goods primarily during the Early and Middle Bronze Age The geography and geology surrounding the cave is discussed along with the methodology of the excavation A portion of the pottery and all of the small finds are presented with many illustrations

Surveying for Engineers John Uren, Bill Price, 2018-03-13 The fifth edition of this classic textbook sets out the essential techniques needed for a solid grounding in the surveying The popular and trusted textbook covers the traditional topics such as levelling measurement of angles measuring distances and how to carry out traversing and compute coordinates as well as the latest technological advances It is packed with clear illustrations exercises and worked examples making it both a comprehensive study aid for students and a reliable reference tool for practitioners This text is aimed at students studying surveying as either part of a civil engineering building or construction course or as a separate discipline It is also useful for students who undertake surveying as an elective subject and is a useful resource for practising surveyors New to this Edition The latest developments in Global Navigation Satellite Systems GNSS particularly the introduction of network RTK and OS Net and their applications Recent developments in survey instruments methods and digital technologies including image processing with total stations and laser scanners developments in data processing and integration and updates on Ordnance Survey mapping products The Surveying Handbook Russell C. Brinker, 2013-06-29 Pseira VI Philip P. Betancourt, Costis Davaras, 2002-12-31 Richard B Seager excavated the Minoan cemetery at Pseira in 1907 but the work was never published The Temple University excavations 1985-1994 under the direction of Philip P Betancourt and Costis Davaras conducted an intensive surface survey of the cemetery area cleaned and drew plans of all visible tombs and excavated tombs that had not been previously excavated The results of the cemetery excavations on the small island off the northeast coast of Crete are published in two volumes Pseira VI publishes the methodology that was employed for the investigation the topography of the cemetery area the little that can be reconstructed of Seager's campaign the ceramic petrography for the cemetery pottery and the results of the intensive surface survey The survey shows that the cemetery was first used in the Neolithic period and it was abandoned in Middle Minoan II before the expansion of the nearby town in LM I It also demonstrates that the cemetery was larger than the area suggested by the 33 tombs found by Seager and it shows that the customs included burial in jars even though no examples have been excavated

Geomatica, 2009 Remote Sensing J D Greer, 1996-09-30 The Bronze Age Towers at Bat, Sultanate of Oman Christopher P. Thornton, 2016 In the third millennium B.C.E. the Oman Peninsula was the site of an important kingdom known in Akkadian texts as Magan which traded extensively with the Indus Civilization southern Iran the Persian Gulf states and southern Mesopotamia Excavations have been carried out in this region since the 1970s although the majority of studies have focused on mortuary monuments at the expense of settlement archaeology While domestic structures of the Bronze Age have been found and are the focus of current research at Bat most settlements dating from the third millennium B C E in Oman and the U A E are defined by the presence of large circular monuments made of mudbrick or stone that are traditionally called towers Whether these so called towers are defensive agricultural political or ritual structures has long been debated but very few comprehensive studies of these monuments have been attempted Between 2007 and 2012 the University of Pennsylvania Museum of Archaeology and Anthropology conducted excavations at the UNESCO World Heritage Site of Bat in the Sultanate of Oman under the direction of the late Gregory L Possehl The focus of these years was on the monumental stone towers of the third millennium B C E looking at the when how and why of their construction through large scale excavation GIS aided survey and the application of radiocarbon dates This has been the most comprehensive study of nonmortuary Bronze Age monuments ever conducted on the Oman Peninsula and the results provide new insight into the formation and function of these impressive structures that surely formed the social and political nexus of Magan s kingdom

Digital Earth Moving Caroline Y. Westort, 2003-06-30 Digital manipulation of landform is revolutionizing how our built environment is designed and constructed On a technical level three dimensional geometric modeling of topography has its origins at the interface of geographic information systems GIS and computer aided geometric modeling CAD the former with its representations of spatial attribute information with digital terrain in several representations Triangulated Irregular Networks contour lines etc the latter focusing primarily on the parameterization and combination of geometric primitives The broadening of these two disciplines to embrace new surveying and navigation advances e g global positioning systems GPS together with developments in engineering on the application side are leading to powerful new suites of functionality There has been a pronounced need for a forum where these traditionally separate parties can interact These proceedings contain the technical papers selected and formally presented as part of the scientific program of the First International Symposium on Digital Earth Moving 2001 DEM 2001 held September 5 7 2001 at the CIM Institute for Computing Science and Industrial Technologies of the University of Applied Science of Southern Switzerland SUPSI iCIMS in Manno Lugano Switzerland It is the first volume published on this explicit theme Thirty six submissions were received from fifteen countries with thirteen select papers and posters presented in the official program and in this publication
