

ECS1501 TEST BANK

Question 1

As an economic concept, scarcity applies to

- [1] neither the poor nor the rich.
- [2] the poor but not the rich.
- [3] the rich but not the poor.
- [4] both the poor and the rich. THE CORRECT OPTION IS 4

Explanation

Scarcity is an economic concept that applies to all individuals rich or poor and to all countries regardless of level of development. Generally resources accessible to individuals and other economic agents are limited and insufficient to meet the agents' unlimited desires. No individual has enough resources to do everything that he/she desires and because of that we say resources are scarce. Scarcity must not be confused with poverty; it affects everyone, rich or poor.

Question 2

Due to scarcity of resource,

- [1] the government must decide how to allocate available resources.
- [2] some members of the society must live in poverty.
- [3] every society must choose among competing uses of available resources. THE CORRECT OPTION IS 3.
- [4] every society must undertake central planning.

Explanation

Due to scarcity of resources, economic agents or society must choose amongst competing uses of available resources. Given that factors of production required to produce all goods and services desired by the society are limited, society has to decide on the best way of allocating these limited resources. It has to choose which goods and services should be produced and which needs or wants should be left unsatisfied. The issue of making choices in the context of scarcity is something that is done by everyone, not only the government. All individuals confronted with the problem of scarce resources should make choices.

Question 3

Microeconomics focuses on all of the following EXCEPT the

- [1] purchasing decisions made by an individual consumer.
- [2] relationship between inflation and unemployment rates. THE CORRECT OPTION IS 2.
- [3] employment decision made by a business.
- [4] decision by a firm to expand its output due to an increase in demand.

Explanation

In microeconomics the focus is on individual parts of the economy i.e. the behaviour of consumers, firms, etc. Microeconomics studies the price of an individual commodity, the number of people employed in a particular firm or industry, the output produced by firms in a particular sector or industry etc. Microeconomics deals with disaggregated data or individual components of the economy. Inflation and unemployment are macroeconomic issues because they relate to the economy as a whole. Thus macroeconomics is the study of broad economic aggregates like inflation, employment, GDP, etc.

Question 4

Macroeconomics focuses on all of the following EXCEPT

- [1] the measurement of a nation's inflation rate.
