

MARK SCHEME for the October/November 2006 question paper

9709 MATHEMATICS

9709/05

Paper 5, maximum raw mark 50

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and students, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began.

All Examiners are instructed that alternative correct answers and unexpected approaches in candidates' scripts must be given marks that fairly reflect the relevant knowledge and skills demonstrated.

Mark schemes must be read in conjunction with the question papers and the report on the examination.

The grade thresholds for various grades are published in the report on the examination for most IGCSE, GCE Advanced Level and Advanced Subsidiary Level syllabuses.

- CIE will not enter into discussions or correspondence in connection with these mark schemes.

CIE is publishing the mark schemes for the October/November 2006 question papers for most IGCSE, GCE Advanced Level and Advanced Subsidiary Level syllabuses and some Ordinary Level syllabuses.

Damage in Biomolecular Systems Gustavo García Gómez-Tejedor, Martina Christina Fuss, 2012-01-05 Since the discovery of X rays and radioactivity ionizing radiations have been widely applied in medicine both for diagnostic and therapeutic purposes The risks associated with radiation exposure and handling led to the parallel development of the field of radiation protection Pioneering experiments done by Sanche and co workers in 2000 showed that low energy secondary electrons which are abundantly generated along radiation tracks are primarily responsible for radiation damage through successive interactions with the molecular constituents of the medium Apart from ionizing processes which are usually related to radiation damage below the ionization level low energy electrons can induce molecular fragmentation via dissociative processes such as internal excitation and electron attachment This prompted collaborative projects between different research groups from European countries together with other specialists from Canada the USA and Australia This book summarizes the advances achieved by these research groups after more than ten years of studies on radiation damage in biomolecular systems An extensive Part I deals with recent experimental and theoretical findings on radiation induced damage at the molecular level It includes many contributions on electron and positron collisions with biologically relevant molecules X ray and ion interactions are also covered Part II addresses different approaches to radiation damage modelling In Part III biomedical aspects of radiation effects are treated on different scales After the physics oriented focus of the previous parts there is a gradual transition to biology and medicine with the increasing size of the object studied Finally Part IV is dedicated to current trends and novel techniques in radiation research and the applications hence arising It includes new developments in radiotherapy and related cancer therapies as well as technical optimizations of accelerators and totally new equipment designs giving a glimpse of the near future of radiation based medical treatments Cilip Chartered Institute of Library and

Matrix Ensembles in Quantum Physics V.K.B. Kota,2014-07-08 Although used with increasing frequency in many branches of physics random matrix ensembles are not always sufficiently specific to account for important features of the physical system at hand One refinement which retains the basic stochastic approach but allows for such features consists in the use of embedded ensembles The present text is an exhaustive introduction to and survey of this important field Starting with an easy to read introduction to general random matrix theory the text then develops the necessary concepts from the beginning accompanying the reader to the frontiers of present day research With some notable exceptions to date these ensembles have primarily been applied in nuclear spectroscopy A characteristic example is the use of a random two body interaction in the framework of the nuclear shell model Yet topics in atomic physics mesoscopic physics quantum information science and statistical mechanics of isolated finite quantum systems can also be addressed using these ensembles This book addresses graduate students and researchers with an interest in applications of random matrix theory to the modeling of more complex physical systems and interactions with applications such as statistical spectroscopy in mind World
