

MARK SCHEME for the October/November 2013 series

9709 MATHEMATICS

9709/33

Paper 3, maximum raw mark 75

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the question paper and the Principal Examiner Report for Teachers.

Cambridge will not enter into discussions about these mark schemes.

Cambridge is publishing the mark schemes for the October/November 2013 series for most IGCSE, GCE Advanced Level and Advanced Subsidiary Level components and some Ordinary Level components.

Functional Characterization of Insect Chemoreceptors: Receptivity Range, Expression and Evolution William B. Walker,Emmanuelle Jacquin-Joly,Sharon R. Hill,2016-06-11 Olfaction and taste are of critical importance to insects and other animals since vital behaviours including mate food and host seeking as well as predator and toxin avoidance are guided by chemosensory cues Mate and habitat choice are to a large extent determined by chemical signals and chemoreceptors contribute accordingly to pre mating isolation barriers and speciation In addition to fundamental physiological ecological and evolutionary consideration the knowledge of insect taste and especially olfaction is also of great importance to human economies since it facilitates a more informed approach to the management of insect pests of agricultural crops and forests and insect vectors of disease Chemoreceptors which bind to external chemical signals and then transform and send the sensory information to the brain are at the core of the peripheral olfactory and gustatory system and have thus been the focus of recent research in chemical ecology Specifically emphasis has been placed on functional characterization of olfactory receptor genes which are derived from three large gene families namely the odorant receptors gustatory receptors and ionotropic receptors Spatial expression patterns of olfactory receptors in diverse chemosensory tissues provide information on divergent functions with regards to ecologically relevant behaviours On the other hand characterization of olfactory receptor activation profiles or deorphanization provides complimentary data on the molecular range of receptivity to the fundamental unit of the olfactory sense The aim of this Research Topic is to give an update on the breadth and depth of research currently in progress related to understanding the molecular mechanisms of insect chemoreception with specific emphasis on the olfactory receptors
