

BLI-223: ORGANISING AND MANAGING INFORMATION JUNE, 2022

PART I

Q1. Explain the need of notation in library classification. Illustrate its types and qualities.

Ans. In the Idea and Verbal planes every concept is given a due place in a classification system, but these terms howsoever, cannot be assigned as index terms to the documents in a library. This is mostly for the following:

- ✦ Names/terms for subjects in the verbal plane are too long to be written as labels. Hence, we require short symbols to denote subjects.
- ✦ Names of subjects are different in different languages whereas in a library we have books in many languages. Mathematics is called "Ganit" in Hindi-then where should be place a book of mathematics in Hindi? : under "G" or "M".?
- ✦ Names keep changing. For example Economics was once called Political Economy. Education Ministry is now called Ministry of Human Resources Development. Sri Lanka was once called Ceylon.
- ✦ If names are used for arrangement of documents then there would be many problems. The subjects will get scattered, e.g. Mathematics will come under "M", whereas Algebra will go to Geometry to "G" and Trigonometry to "T". A family will thus get dispersed.
- ✦ Even if these names are labeled on the documents how these will preserve the systematic order of subjects (in arrays and chains) arrived in the idea plane.? Words in themselves can only be arranged alphabetically. Therefore, to preserve the decided sequence of subjects and their subdivisions a series of ordinal symbols are assigned to the concepts and terms. For example, in botany the arrangement of various parts of plants decided in the idea plane is

Plant I
Root I,3
Stem I,4
Leaf I,5
Flower I,6
Fruit I,7
Seed I,8

Qualities of Notation

Apart from all the above mandatory qualities (as Ranganathan terms them as canons) other qualities of notation can be of three types:

- 1) Optional or desirable
- 2) Essential and vital
- 3) Scientific

Above all the notation should be user friendly. Among the desirable qualities, a notation should be brief and not highly mixed, so that digits convey a self-evident order. For example, order of mathematical symbols or punctuation marks is not self-evident. Digits should be easy to write, in fact should be available on the computer key board. Class number should be easy to pronounce and remember for a short while. Brevity of class numbers in the print environment was a necessity as a class number had to be written on the book spine, which has a very limited breadth. Lengthy
