Report Cards

Report Cards will go home on Monday, February 3rd. Please take time to review your child's report card with your child. It is helpful for children to know what areas they are doing well and where they need to work harder. Don't feel the need to reward their hard work with a tangible item. Most children respond well to praise for their persistence and hard work. Please focus on the effort behind the grade and not for the grade itself. If a child is lacking in an area, it may be helpful to set a goal to improve a grade or learning behavior.

Finn,2022-08-23 Assessing the Nation s Report Card examines the history of the National Assessment of Educational Progress NAEP and outlines plans for improving and modernizing the organization Educational policy analyst Chester E Finn Jr imparts a rare inside analysis of the evolution of the NAEP program at key moments in its history and provides a firsthand perspective of crucial decisions and core goals that have helped shape it The result is a revealing survey of the US's most influential source of data on K-12 achievement. Assessing the Nation's Report Card offers readers an in-depth understanding and appreciation of NAEP as well as an examination of its shortcomings, its controversies, and its current issues. The book explores why NAEP is considered the gold standard of educational assessments yet is much lesser known than other types of standardized testing. Finn underscores the promise of applying the results in addressing achievement gaps, boosting federal accountability, and driving education reform and policy. He also discloses how the data are collected and what the results can and cannot tell us. For more than 50 years, this ambitious federal testing program has informed the decisions of policy makers and educational leaders as they advocate for educational improvements in the US. Acknowledging the nation's evolving need for actionable information about students and schools, Finn provides an assured and rare overview of the existing program and proposes possibilities for the future.

Report Cards Wade H. Morris, 2023-09-26 This book tells the story of American education by examining this unique element of student life. The author shows the evolution of how teachers, students, parents, and administrators responded to report cards. Report cards, he shows, were more than just a means by which a school documented each student's department, academic standing, and attendance. They were a tool of control, a microcosm for the changing power dynamics between teachers, parents, and students.

Student Voices in Formative Assessment Feedback Pernille Fiskerstrand, Wenke Mork Rogne, Paul Kessler Rogers, Fabienne Van Der Kleij, 2025-10-23 This Research Topic seeks to bring forward new empirical research on students' experiences and emotions toward formative assessment feedback. Research on formative assessment has expanded considerably over the last decades (Lee et al 2020; Morris et al 2021; Shute 2008), and research has identified positive learning effects from the student's perspective (Weurlander et al 2012). However, in their extensive review, Van der Kleij and Lipnevich (2021) found that the field of students' perceptions of assessment feedback lacks clear definitions in addition to deeper relations to theory. Methodological shortcomings in self-reporting feedback studies are also found in Brown and Zhao (2023). Consequently, the relatively large body of research on the topic is isolated and diverse. As such, the existing research offers minimal understanding of the connection between students' perceptions of feedback, their engagement with it, and the outcome of the assessment feedback. Van der Kleij, Winstone: Elementary students' view of formative assessment processes and outcomes. Assessment environment.
