Gullette,2024-10-18 A bracing spotlight on the avoidable causes of the COVID 19 Eldercide in the United States Twenty percent of the Americans who have died of COVID since 2020 have been older and disabled adults residing in nursing homes even though they make up fewer than one percent of the US population Something about this catastrophic loss of life in government monitored facilities has never added up Until now In American Eldercide activist and scholar Margaret Morganroth Gullette investigates this tragic public health crisis with a passionate voice and razor sharp attention to detail showing us that nothing about it was inevitable By unpacking the decisions that led to discrimination against nursing home residents revealing how governments doctors and media reinforced ageist or ableist biases and collecting the previously little heard voices of the residents who survived Gullette helps us understand the workings of what she persuasively calls an eldercide Gullette argues that it was our collective indifference fueled by the heightened ageism of the COVID 19 era that prematurely killed this vulnerable population Compounding that deadly indifference is our own panic about aging and a social bias in favor of youth based decisions about lifesaving care The compassion this country failed to muster for the residents of our nursing facilities motivated Gullette to pen an act of remembrance issuing a call for pro aging changes in policy and culture that would improve long term care for everyone Innovation and Discoveries in Marine

Agricultural land is subjected to a variety of societal pressures as demands for food animal feed and biomass production increase with an added requirement to simultaneously maintain natural areas and mitigate climatic and environmental impacts The biotic elements of agricultural systems interact with the abiotic environment to generate a number of ecosystem functions that offer services benefiting humans across many scales of time and space The intensification of agriculture generally reduces biodiversity including that within soil and impacts negatively upon a number of regulating and supporting ecosystem services There is a global need toward achieving sustainable agricultural systems as also highlighted in the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals There is hence a need for management regimes that enhance both agricultural production and the associated provision of multiple ecosystem services The articles of this Research Topic enhance our knowledge of how management practices applied to agricultural systems affect the delivery of multiple ecosystem services and how trade offs between provisioning regulating and supporting services can be handled both above and below ground They also show the diversity of topics that need to be considered within the framework of ecosystem services delivered by agricultural systems from knowledge on basic concepts and newly proposed frameworks to a focus on specific ecosystem types such as grasslands and high nature value farmlands pollinator habitats and soil habitats This diversity of topics indicates the need for broader scope research integrated with targeted scientific research to promote sustainable agricultural practices and to ensure food security
