

Analog Communication Viva Questions :-

Analog Communication is a data transmitting technique in which information signal is transmitted in analog nature. This always utilizes continuous signals to transmit data which may obtained from audio, image, video etc. An Analog signal is a variable signal continuous in both time and amplitude. To produce modulated signal inside the transmitter in Analog Communication, analog signal modulates the high carrier frequency. Then this modulated signal is transmitted with the help of antenna. All AM, FM audio transmission and T.V. transmission are the most preferable examples of analog communication. Analog communication is very important topic for the students preparing for GATE Exam(Electronics) Following questions will help to learn the basics concepts of analog communication.

1. Sampling frequency must be greater than the frequency of the modulating signal.

Turner, 2013-03-09 Perhaps the most difficult milestone in a young clinician s career is the completion of the first interview For the typical trainee the endeavor is fraught with apprehension and with some degree of dread If the interview goes well there is considerable rejoicing if it goes badly much consternation results Irrespective of the amount of preparation that has taken place before the interview the neophyte will justifiably remain nervous about this endeavor Thus the first edition of Diagnostic Interviewing was devoted to providing a clear outline for the student in tackling a large variety of patients in the interview setting In consideration of the positive response to the first edition of Diagnostic Interviewing published in 1985 we and our editor at Plenum Press Eliot Werner decided that it was time to update the material However the basic premise that a book of this nature needs to encompass theoretical rationale clinical description and the pragmatics of how to once again has been followed And as in the case of the first edition this second edition does not represent the cat s being skinned in yet another way Quite to the contrary we still believe that our students truly need to read the material covered herein with considerable care and once again the book is dedicated to them We are particularly concerned that in the clinical education of our graduate students interviewing has been given short shrift
