VARYING DEFINITIONS OF ONLINE COMMUNICATION

Abstract

This paper explores four published articles that report on results from research conducted on online (Internet) and offline (non-Internet) relationships and their relationship to computer-mediated communication (CMC). The articles, however, vary in their definitions and uses of CMC. Butler and Kraut (2002) suggest that face-to-face (FtF) interactions are more effective than CMC, defined and used as "email," in creating feelings of closeness or intimacy. Other articles define CMC differently and, therefore, offer different results. This paper examines Cummings, Butler, and Kraut's (2002).

The abstract is a brief summary of the paper allowing readers to quickly review the main points and purpose of the paper.

The abstract should be between 150-250 words. Abbreviations and acronyms used in the paper should be defined in the abstract.

The word "Abstract" should be centered and typed in 12 point Times New Roman. Do not indent the first line of the abstract paragraph. All other paragraphs in the paper should be indented.
