Most significant differences between 6th & 7th editions of the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (noted on page xix – xxi of introduction):

Chapter 2: Paper Elements and Format – will help with paper organization

- Running head format simplified, instructor discretion if required for student papers
- More flexible font specifications (no longer restricted to Times New Roman).

Chapter 5: Bias-Free Language Guidelines

Chapter 6: Mechanics of Style – includes specific guidelines regarding punctuation, capitalization, abbreviations, numbers, and statistics in text.

Chapter 8: Plagiarism, unethical writing practices, examples of paraphrasing, and simplified in-text citations addressed.

Chapter 9: Four elements of a reference list entry.

- Number of authors included in a reference entry changed

Chapter 10: More than 100 examples of APA Style References

- Book references now omit publisher location
- More reference examples for various audiovisual resources

"The APA Style website (<https://apastyle.apa.org>) is the premier and authoritative online destination for APA Style. In addition to numerous free resources and instructional aids, it contains supplemental content that is referred to throughout the manual, including additional reference examples, sample papers, and guidance on using color effectively and accessibly in figures" (APA, xxii).

American Psychological Association. (2020). Publication manual of the American Psychological Association (7th ed.) <https://doi.org/10.1037/0000165-000>

Specific requirements (content areas, headings, number of words, length of paper) will be determined by the instructor for each writing assignment. However, the following will be required for any formally written paper:

- Title page
  - Title of paper
  - Author (student's) name
