

Using American Psychological Association (APA) Format (Updated to 5th Edition)

Brought to you by the Purdue University Online Writing Lab.

If you are asked to use APA format for a paper, the book to consult is the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (5th edition), which the American Psychological Association has recently updated. Citing electronic sources was a major part of this update as these types of sources are increasingly common in research within the social sciences. Below, you will find some examples of these updated citation styles. If you want to order an APA manual or view the latest updates about electronic sources in more detail, visit the new APA style web site at <http://www.apastyle.org> or consult our additional resources section for lots of links to helpful information. For a guide to writing papers in psychology, check out George Mason University's Psychology Writing Guide (at <http://www.gmu.edu/departments/psychology/writing/index.htm>) or the University of Washington's Psychology Writing Center (at <http://depts.washington.edu/psych/>).

We have created an APA style workshop (<http://owl.english.purdue.edu/workshops/hypertext/apa/index.html>) that offers a wealth of information about writing and formatting papers in APA style. This handout covers the following basic issues:

- General Format
- Referring to the Works of Others in Your Text
- Your Reference List
- Examples
- Notes
- Additional Resources

We also have a PowerPoint presentation available at <http://owl.english.purdue.edu/workshops/pp/index.html> that covers APA style basics.

General Format

General format for manuscripts written in APA style is covered in the first chapter of the Publication Manual, starting on page ten. What follows are some general guidelines for formatting. For more information about how to format a manuscript, see the many links in our additional resources section.

Your essay should be typed, double-spaced on standard-sized paper (8.5 X 11 inches) with margins of 1 inch on all sides. Your final essay should include, in the order indicated below, as many of the following sections as are applicable, each of which should begin on a separate page:

- title page, which includes a running head for publication, title, and byline and affiliation
- abstract
- text
- references
- appendixes
- author note
- footnotes/endnotes
- tables
- figure captions
- figures

Here is a sample title page in APA format. Note how it includes the running head and page
