and Ethics series collection Geographical Knowledge Construction and Production Archie K. Deen, 2015-09-02

Geographical Knowledge Construction and Production Teacher and Student Perspectives is a readable and illuminating account of three high school classrooms in suburban Atlanta Georgia. It challenges the narrow focus of the Advanced Placement AP programme as a tool for admission into colleges and universities in the United States. The research provides insight into the College Board's AP programme and argues for teaching and learning that is transformative and geared toward equipping students with the skills and knowledge necessary to confront the challenges of the 21st century. In particular, it advocates for geographic education that is anchored in the structure of the subject, teasing wherever possible the contradictions and tensions embedded in the complexities of facts relating to people and places. This book is essential reading for professors and students of education, teachers and students of AP courses, parents, administrators, and state and federal agencies vested in the AP programme.

God Has an App for That Dudley Rutherford, 2012-01-03 Wouldn't it be great if there were accessible answers to our spiritual problems just like there's a Smartphone app for calculating a tip or getting directions to the dry cleaner? Most of us have heard the phrase "There's an app for that" popularized by the creators of the iPhone. Well, guess what? God has an app for the common conundrums faced by Christians everywhere: Stressed out? Struggling with prejudice? God has an app for that. Problem with crude language or gossip? Broken-hearted, anxious, or depressed? God has an app for that, too. Pastor Dudley Rutherford invites readers to explore the book of James and discover God's user-friendly solutions for their biggest challenges in faith and life.

The Patchwork of World History in Texas High Schools Stephen Jackson, 2022-11-30 This book traces the historical development of the World History course as it has been taught in high school classrooms in Texas, a populous and nationally influential state, over the last hundred years. Arguing that the course is a result of a patchwork of competing groups and ideas that have intersected over the past century, with each new framework patched over but never completely erased or replaced, the author crucially examines themes of imperialism, Eurocentrism, and nationalism in both textbooks and the curriculum more broadly. The first part of the book presents an overview of the World

History course supported by numerical analysis of textbook content and public documents while the second focuses on the depiction of non Western peoples and persistent narratives of Eurocentrism and nationalism It ultimately offers that a more global accurate and balanced curriculum is possible despite the tension between the ideas of professional world historians who often de center the nation state in their quest for a truly global approach to the subject and the historical core rationale of state sponsored education in the United States to produce loyal citizens Offering a new conceptual understanding of how colonial themes in World History curriculum have been dealt with in the past and are now engaged with in contemporary times it provides essential context for scholars and educators with interests in the history of education curriculum studies and the teaching of World History in the United States

Innovative Strategies, Statistical Solutions and Simulations for Modern Clinical Trials Mark Chang, John Balser, Jim Roach, Robin Bliss, 2019-03-20 This is truly an outstanding book It brings together all of the latest research in clinical trials methodology and how it can be applied to drug development Chang et al provide applications to industry supported trials This will allow statisticians in the industry community to take these methods seriously Jay Herson Johns Hopkins University The pharmaceutical industry s approach to drug discovery and development has rapidly transformed in the last decade from the more traditional Research and Development R D approach to a more innovative approach in which strategies are employed to compress and optimize the clinical development plan and associated timelines However these strategies are generally being considered on an individual trial basis and not as part of a fully integrated overall development program Such optimization at the trial level is somewhat near sighted and does not ensure cost time or development efficiency of the overall program This book seeks to address this imbalance by establishing a statistical framework for overall global clinical development optimization and providing tactics and techniques to support such optimization including clinical trial simulations Provides a statistical framework for achieve global optimization in each phase of the drug development process Describes specific techniques to support optimization including adaptive designs precision medicine survival endpoints dose finding and multiple testing Gives practical approaches to handling missing data in clinical trials using SAS Looks at key controversial issues from both a clinical and statistical perspective Presents a generous number of case studies from multiple therapeutic areas that help motivate and illustrate the statistical methods introduced in the book Puts great emphasis on software implementation of the statistical methods with multiple examples of software code both SAS and R It is important for statisticians to possess a deep knowledge of the drug development process beyond statistical considerations For these reasons this book incorporates both statistical and clinical medical perspectives
