John R. Walker,2016-05-23 In 1962 Dean Acheson famously described Britain as having lost an Empire but not yet found a role Perhaps nowhere is this more apparent than in the realms of nuclear weapons An increasingly marginal world power successive post war British governments felt that an independent nuclear deterrent was essential if the country was to remain at the top table of world diplomacy Focusing on a key twenty year period this study explores Britain s role in efforts to bring about a nuclear test ban treaty between 1954 and 1973 Taking a broadly chronological approach it examines the nature of defence planning the scientific goals that nuclear tests were designed to secure Anglo American relationships the efficacy of British diplomacy and its contribution to arms control and disarmament A key theme of the study is to show how the UK managed to balance the conflicting pressures created by its determination to remain a credible nuclear power whilst wanting to pursue disarmament objectives and how these pressures shifted over the period in question Based on a wealth of primary sources this book opens up the largely ignored subject of the impact of arms control on the UK nuclear weapons programme Its appraisal of the relationship between the requirements and developments of the UK nuclear weapons programme against international and domestic pressures for a test ban treaty will be of interest to anyone studying post war British defence and foreign policy history of science arms control disarmament and non proliferation and international relations It also provides important background information on current events involving nuclear proliferation and disarmament

British Nuclear Weapons and the Test Ban 1954-73 John R. Walker, 2010 Focusing on a key twenty year period this study explores Britain's role in efforts to bring about a nuclear test ban treaty between 1954 and 1973 Taking a broadly chronological approach it examines the nature of defence planning Anglo American relationships the efficacy of British diplomacy and UK contributions to arms control and disarmament The appraisal of the relationship between the requirements and developments of the UK nuclear weapons programme against the countervailing international and domestic pressures for a test ban treaty will be of interest to anyone studying post war British defence and foreign policy history of science arms control disarmament and non proliferation and international relations or who is looking for background information on current events involving nuclear proliferation and disarmament
