Processing Politics Doris A. Graber,2012-07-15 How often do we hear that Americans are so ignorant about politics that their civic competence is impaired and that the media are to blame because they do a dismal job of informing the public Processing Politics shows that average Americans are far smarter than the critics believe Integrating a broad range of current research on how people learn from political science social psychology communication physiology and artificial intelligence Doris Graber shows that televised presentations at their best actually excel at transmitting information and facilitating learning She critiques current political offerings in terms of their compatibility with our learning capacities and interests and she considers the obstacles both economic and political that affect the content we receive on the air on cable or on the Internet More and more people rely on information from television and the Internet to make important decisions Processing Politics offers a sound well researched defense of these remarkably versatile media and challenges us to make them work for us in our democracy
