engravers and hence didn't come cheaply. They were treasured by libraries and their intrinsic worth has meant that there is an incredible wealth of beautifully preserved historic examples from the 15th century onwards. The enduring popularity of Gray's Anatomy has shown that there is a long-term interest in the subject beyond the necessity of medical students to learn the modern equivalent. The 42nd edition (2020) from cover to cover. But Englishman Henry Gray was late in the field and never saw the enduring success of his famous work. Having first published the surgeon's reference book in 1858, he died in 1861 after contracting smallpox from his nephew who survived. He was just 34. Gray was following on from a long tradition of anatomists starting with Aristotle and Galen whose competing theories about the human body dominated early medicine. However, they did not have the illustrative skills of Leonardo da Vinci who was trained in anatomy by Andrea del Verrocchio. In 1489, Leonardo began a series of anatomical drawings depicting the human form. His surviving 750 drawings from two decades represent groundbreaking studies in anatomy. However, none of Leonardo's Notebooks were published during his lifetime; they only appeared in print centuries after his death. Brussels-born Andries van Wesel, Andreas Vesalius, professor at the University of Padua, is deemed to be the founder of modern anatomical reference with his 1543 work De Humani Corporis Fabrica Libri Septem. On the fabric of the human body in seven books. An Italian contemporary was Bartolomeo Eustachi, who supported Galen's medical theories. Among other discoveries, he correctly identified the Eustachian tube and the arrangement of bones in the inner ear. His Anatomical Engravings were completed in 1552, nine years after Vesalius's great work, but remained unpublished until 1714. These are just two entries in a book brimming with an abundance of important illustrated works, with some more primitive examples from the 15th century up to the 42nd edition of Gray's in the 21st.

Heart Christine Apter, PhD, ERYT 500, 2017-11-06 A Journey in the Heart By Christine Apter PhD ERYT 500 This book is meant to be an organized curriculum that takes a student beyond the foundational philosophy anatomy technical aspects and teaching methodology developed from many advanced yoga teacher training workshops The basics of yoga teaching with the standards of Yoga Alliance are not covered in this text It is designed as a manual intended to meet the criteria for 300 hours of knowledge and practice above and beyond what is taught in basic yoga teacher training A deep desire and enthusiasm for the teaching is perhaps a more important criterion for the aspiration to dive deeper To be proficient in teaching and practicing it takes thousands of hours and perhaps decades of committed work The art and science of yoga teaching and practice come together with the flexible format surrounding factual structure presented in this book Rather than an authoritative tool this manual is fashioned to be a framework for the creative work it takes to teach yoga and practice deeper The reader is encouraged to build upon the information and inspiration and to be creative and innovative with the material
