CHAPTER 4: Environmental Science: Ecosystems

The present state of the environment needs to be addressed by every human being inhabiting the Earth. Being the highest form of animal, endowed with the ability to discern what is right or wrong, humans are expected to assume the responsibility to take care of the planet and not destroy it.

It is a must for everyone to have basic knowledge about ecology to ensure that every living being will work hand in hand to help protect and preserve this planet, we call home.

Ecology is the study of the interactions of organisms with their physical environment and with each other. The following introductory vocabulary for the topic are significant to familiarize yourself with.

- Species – all the organisms (plants, animals, or microbes) of a single kind. The “single kind” is determined by similarity of appearance or by the fact that members do or can mate and produce fertile offspring.
- Population – a group of individuals of one species living in one area who can interbreed and interact with each other.
- Community- consists of all the organisms living in one area.
- Ecosystem- includes all the organisms in each area as well as the abiotic (non-living) factors with which they interact.
- Biosphere- is the global ecosystem.

Four Laws of Ecology

To understand the ecological impact of our actions, it is useful to look at what Barry Commoner and others have referred to as the four informal laws of ecology:

1. Everything is connected to everything else.
2. Everything must go somewhere.
3. Nature knows best, and
4. Nothing comes from nothing.

The first of these informal laws, everything is connected to everything else, indicates how ecosystems are complex and interconnected. Everything in nature affect each other. Living things need the different non-living entities to sustain life. Plants, for example, need carbon dioxide to produce food in the process of photosynthesis, and in return, release oxygen for animals to use. The activities of man, on the other hand affects the quality of air causing the concentration of gases like carbon dioxide to either increase or decrease. Increase in carbon dioxide, being a greenhouse gas, contributes to global warming due to greenhouse effect. Increase atmospheric temperature cause water scarcity in some localities that will in turn cause the death of vegetations.
