Chapter 12)

10/19/22

- 1) The War of 1812 (Madison's War - as he endorsed it - & The Second War of Independence - as it was once again against the British)
 - Madison made the mistake believing that joining the war would make us allies of the French once again, however Napoleon was then invading Russia (and then later failed after being bombarded by the winter)
 - During the War, the British had almost completely reconquered the entirety of what was their empire
 - King George III was still king at the time of the war
 - The number one cause of the War of 1812 was impressment: The act of stopping and boarding American ships and then forcibly removing sailors and placing them in the Royal Navy → Practiced by the British in the years leading up to the war
 - With the high pressures of the British Navy, many sailors fled when they had a chance, most often leaving to the US (desertion) → Looking for work, they would then go back to sailing, but as Americans → This then led to the British stopping ships, forcibly asking for all men to be called on deck, and question each crew member in attempt to determine if they were a deserter of the Royal Navy
 - Another cause for the war was Americans wanting to take Canada → Americans took York (modern day Toronto) after the surrender of the British - They then ransacked and pillaged the town, then burning it down
 - The British sent a force of 20,000 men and half the Royal Navy, chasing the Americans out of Canada and well into US territory
 - Henry Clay (1777-1852) - A Hamiltonian: Congressman of Kentucky, served from 1812-1852, leader of the "War-Hawks" who pushed for war with Britain, and eventually served as Speaker of the House (serving for longer than anyone else in US history)
 - The British attacked every single state along the east coast, with every major city along said coast being held under British occupation
 - They entered the Chesapeake Bay and attempted to take Baltimore → The Bombardment of Fort McHenry - Leading to Frances Scott Key writing his poem with then became a song → The Star Spangled Banner
 - The British eventually took Baltimore and later burnt the capital to the ground → A cause of what happened in Canada to York

Asymmetric Politics Matthew Grossmann, David A. Hopkins, 2016 The Republican Party is the vehicle of an ideological movement whereas the Democratic Party is a coalition of social groups with concrete policy concerns Democrats prefer a more moderate party leadership that makes compromises whereas Republicans favor a more conservative party leadership that sticks to principles Each party finds popular support for its approach because the American public simultaneously favors liberal positions on specific policy issues and conservative views on the broader role of government Learning in the Fast Lane Chester E.
