Sensemaking: A Structure for an Intelligence Revolution David T. Moore, 2012-11-16 David T Moore author of Critical Thinking and Intelligence Analysis presents a new paradigm for intelligence analysis that he calls Sensemaking a set of philosophical assumptions substantive propositions methodological framings and methods He looks at the failure of normal intelligence to propose a shift from normal to revolutionary intelligence Moore uses Churchman s concept of wicked problems to lay out the the challenge and he includes discussion of methodology and rigor as it applies to his system Includes notes bibliography index as well as comments from Phil Williams Christian Westermann Emily Matterson Anthony Olcott and Gregory Treverton

Doing Philosophy at the Movies Richard A. Gilmore, 2012-02-01 Doing Philosophy at the Movies finds the roots of profound philosophical ideas in the relatively ordinary context of popular mostly Hollywood movies Richard A Gilmore suggests that narratives of popular films like Hitchcock s Vertigo John Ford s The Searchers Woody Allen s Crimes and Misdemeanors the Coen Brothers Fargo and Danny Boyle s Trainspotting mirror certain epiphanies in the works of great philosophers Via Plato Aristotle Kant Nietzsche Wittgenstein and Z iz ek Gilmore addresses such themes as the nature of philosophy the possibility of redemption through love catharsis the sublime and the human problem of death Gilmore argues that seeing these movies through the lens of certain philosophical ideas can show how deeply relevant both philosophy and the movies can be

Law and Popular Culture Michael Asimow, Kathryn Brown, David Papke, 2014-06-12 Commentators have noted the extraordinary impact of popular culture on legal practice courtroom proceedings police departments and government as a whole and it is no exaggeration to say that most people derive their basic understanding of law from cultural products Movies television programs fiction children's literature online games and the mass media typically influence attitudes and impressions regarding law and legal institutions more than law and legal institutions themselves Law and Popular Culture International Perspectives enhances the appreciation of the interaction between popular culture and law by underscoring this interaction's multinational and international features Two dozen authors from nine countries invite readers to consider the role of law related popular culture in a broad range of nations socio political contexts and educational environments Even more importantly selected contributors explore the global transmission and reception of law related cultural products and in particular the influence of assorted works and media across national borders and cultural boundaries The circulation and consumption of law related popular culture are increasing as channels of mass media become more complex and as globalization runs its uncertain course Law and Popular Culture International Perspectives adds to the critical understanding of the worldwide interaction of popular culture and law and encourages reflection on the wider implications of this mutual influence across both time and geography

Persuasion Robert H Gass, John S Seiter, 2015-07-17 First Published in 2015 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an Informa company Literature into Film Linda Costanzo Cahir, 2006-04-04 For most people film adaptation of literature can be summed up in one sentence The movie wasn't as good as the book This volume undertakes to show the reader that not only is this evaluation not always true but sometimes it is intrinsically unfair Movies based on literary works while often billed as adaptations are more correctly termed translations A director and his actors translate the story from the written page into a visual presentation Depending on the form of the original text and the chosen method of translation certain inherent difficulties and pitfalls are associated with this change of medium So often our reception of a book based movie has more to do with our expectations and reading of the literature than with the job that the movie production did or did not do Avoiding these biases and fairly evaluating any particular literary based film takes an awareness of certain factors Written with a formalistic rather than historical approach this work presents a comprehensive guide to literature based films establishing a contextual and theoretical basis to help the reader understand the relationships between such movies and the original texts as well as the reader's own individual responses to these productions To this end it focuses on recognizing and appreciating the inherent difficulties encountered when basing a film on a literary work be it a novel novella play or short story Individual chapters deal with the specific issues and difficulties raised by each of these genres providing an overview backed up by case studies of specific film translations Films and literary works receiving this treatment include The Unbearable Lightness of Being The Manchurian Candidate 1962 Lady Windemere's Fan by Oscar Wilde and Shakespeare's Henry V Interspersed throughout the text are suggestions for activities the film student or buff can use to enhance his or her appreciation and understanding of the films Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here

Emotion and the Structure of Narrative Film Ed S. Tan, 2013-10-16 Introduced one hundred years ago film has since become part of our lives For the past century however the experience offered by fiction films has remained a mystery Questions such as why adult viewers cry and shiver and why they care at all about fictional characters while aware that they contemplate an entirely staged scene are still unresolved In addition it is unknown why spectators find some film experiences entertaining that have a clearly aversive nature outside the cinema These and other questions make the psychological status of emotions allegedly induced by the fiction film highly problematic Earlier attempts to answer these questions have been limited to a few genre studies In recent years film criticism and the theory of film structure have made use of psychoanalytic concepts which have proven insufficient in accounting for the diversity of film induced affect In contrast academic psychology during the century of its existence has made extensive study of emotional responses provoked by viewing fiction film but has taken the role of film as a natural stimulus completely for granted The present volume bridges the gap between critical theories of film on the one hand and recent psychological theory and research of human emotion on the other in an attempt to explain the emotions provoked by fiction film This book integrates insights on the narrative structure of fiction film including its themes plot structure and characters with recent knowledge on the cognitive processing of natural events and narrative and person information It develops a theoretical framework for systematically describing emotion in the film viewer The question whether or not film produces genuine emotion is answered by comparing affect in the viewer with emotion in the real world experienced by persons witnessing events that have personal significance to them Current understanding of the psychology of emotions provides the basis for identifying critical features of the fiction film that trigger the general emotion system Individual emotions are classified according to their position in the affect structure of a film a larger system of emotions produced by one particular film as a whole Along the way a series of problematic issues is dealt with notably the reality of the emotional stimulus in film the identification of the viewer with protagonists on screen and the necessity of the viewer's cooperation in arriving at a genuine emotion Finally it is argued that film produced emotions are genuine emotions in response to an artificial stimulus Film can be regarded as a fine tuned machine for a continuous stream of emotions that are entertaining after all The work paves the way for understanding and in principle predicting emotions in the film viewer using existing psychological instruments of investigation Dealing with the problems of film induced affect and rendering them accessible to formal modeling and experimental method serves a wider interest of understanding aesthetic emotion the feelings that man made products and especially works of art can evoke in the beholder
