A Guide to Cultural Landscape Reports: Contents, process and techniques Robert R. Page, Cathy Gilbert, Susan Dolan, 1998

The Didactical Challenge of Symbolic Calculators Dominique Guin, Kenneth Ruthven, Luc Trouche, 2005-11-13 A significant driver of recent growth in the use of mathematics in the professions has been the support brought by new technologies Not only has this facilitated the application of established methods of mathematical and statistical analysis but it has stimulated the development of innovative approaches These changes have produced a marked evolution in the professional practice of mathematics an evolution which has not yet provoked a corresponding adaptation in mathematical education particularly at school level In particular although calculators first arithmetic and scientific then graphic now symbolic have been found well suited in many respects to the working conditions of pupils and teachers and have even achieved a degree of official recognition the integration of new technologies into the mathematical practice of schools remains marginal. It is this situation which has motivated the research and development work to be reported in this volume. The appearance of ever more powerful and portable computational tools has certainly given rise to continuing research and development activity at all levels of mathematical education. Amongst pioneers such innovation has often been seen as an opportunity to renew the teaching and learning of mathematics. Equally, however, the institutionalization of computational tools within educational practice has proceeded at a strikingly slow pace over many years. System 6

Alternatives Bruce G. Hansen, 1984. S2. Three system 6 mill size alternatives were designed and evaluated to determine their overall economic potential for producing standard size hardwood blanks. The study focused on developing standard discounted cash flow measures. Internal rates of return ranged from about 15 to 35 percent after taxes. Secondary effort was directed at providing accounting cost summaries to facilitate cost comparison of standard size blanks with rough dimension stock. Cost per square foot of blanks ranged from about 0.88 to 1.19 depending on mill size and the amount of new investment required. S3
