Counseling and Pastoral Care in African and Other Cross-Cultural Contexts Tapiwa N. Mucherera,2017-11-03 The coming of Colonization and Christianity to Africa and other indigenous cross cultural contexts was a mixed bag of pros and cons The impact of the advent of the two has had a lasting effect being felt even today It created issues of bi culturalism and bi religiousness in personal and religious identities that counselors and the church need to address when working with people from these contexts There is the existence of deep cultural trauma including psychological and spiritual scars needing healing for those living in most of these post colonial contexts The Western counseling approaches and Christian rituals need contextualization A counselor or pastoral caregiver with an integrative consciousness is required to address the psychological and religious identity conflicts existing in African and other indigenous cross cultural contexts Surviving the historical and spatial dimensions of civil society in Zimbabwe s Matabeleland region an area suffering from severe development and democratic deficits over many decades Transcending an organisational conception of civil society and a simplistic state civil society dualist understanding it recognises the dynamic character of civil society as a social space inclusive of less formalised associational forms of collective life as well as the colonial character and legacies of civil society both analytically and empirically This book facilitates a nuanced understanding of the specificities of the social political and economic evolution of Matabeleland in colonial and post colonial Zimbabwe and the region s troubled relations with the central state Historically it traces civil society in Matabeleland from the region s resistance against the colonial settler state to contemporary struggles for justice given the unresolved Gukurahundi legacy Civil society is depicted as constituted by a set of complex and shifting struggles for justice not simply between Matabeleland and the central state but also internally within Matabeleland along multiple fault lines including class and culture The relevance of understanding civil society in Matabeleland for Zimbabwe and Africa more widely is brought to the fore The book will be of interest and value to scholars of civil society politics and democratisation across the African continent Handbook of Dialysis John T. Social Motivations for Codeswitching Carol Myers-Scotton, 1993 Codeswitching may be broadly defined as the use of two or more linguistic varieties in the same conversation Using data from multilingual African context Carol Myers-Scotton advances a theoretical argument which aims at a general explanation of the motivations underlying the phenomenon She treats codeswitching as a type of skilled performance not as the alternative strategy of a person who cannot carry on a conversation in the language in which it began Speakers exploit the socio psychological values associated with different linguistic varieties in a particular speech community by switching codes speakers negotiate a change in social distance between themselves and other participants in a conversation Switching between languages has much in common with making stylistic choices within the same language it is as if bilingual and multilingual speakers have an additional style at their command when they engage in codeswitching _

Language History and Linguistic Description in Africa Ian Maddieson, Thomas J. Hinnebusch, 1998 For more than a quarter of a century the Annual conference on African Linguistics ACAL has provided a lively forum for the confrontation of ideas on theoretical linguistics with descriptive data on African languages
