Old grandmother lay on her bed, stiffening a little, her small bright eyes fixed suspiciously on the door when she thought she heard foot-steps outside, but falling back in relief when she remembered that the whole family had gone out for the afternoon, and there would be nobody to disturb her. Body language suggests discomfort: on guard falling to her relief suggests that family is the source of tension in her.

Disturb her! "They seemed bent on just that," thought old grandmother bitterly. Why must that daughter-in-law of hers be plaguing the life out of her, wanting to get rid of the things in her room—her table, her cupboard, her bed! emphatic on her belongings: possession frustrated at O.L. behavior

"My very altar—she would fling my ancestral tablets out of the window if she could," thought old grandmother angrily.

And the bitterness gave way to an overwhelming [sadness] so that old grandmother moaned and rocked from side to side in abject misery. From her teenage days, she had had the habit of speaking aloud her sorrows even when the sobs made speech incoherent. She did so now, recollecting the griefs of her life, first in choking agony, and gradually, as the sobs subsided, in a kind of mournful sing-song. underlying emotion beneath anger spouted deep seated sadness

"I am only a poor old widow. My sons and daughters do not care for me. They argue with one another about whose turn it is to take me in. They think I cannot understand the foreign language they speak, but I know all that they are saying. They vs I: sense of exclusion feels rejected

"They do not want me because I am old and sick and isolation

Ghost Stories of an Antiquary M R James,2021-01-29 James s ghost stories are usually regarded as the most accomplished of their kind They are not traditional ghost stories in the formal sense James shied away from the shrouded wraith or the gothic chain rattler His ghosts are of the monstrous kind often hairy and with teeth and they are always malicious James s framework for the ghost story was set down in an introduction he wrote for Ghosts and Marvels 1924 edited by Vere H Collins and it admirably establishes James s approach He refers to two key ingredients the atmosphere and a nicely managed crescendo He also believed that a slight haze of distance is desirable He usually created that effect through the study of old documents or buildings or through a tale retold The atmosphere involved characters going about their normal business before the ominous thing begins to intrude unobtrusively at first and then more insistently until it holds the stage This approach is the trademark of all of James s ghost stories One less apparent trait is the humor that pervades his stories James traditionally read his stories at Christmas to students at King s College Cambridge where he was dean and later provost Because James was a capable mimic his deliberate mocking of local characters would come through in the narration This helped provide a commonplace setting into which the ominous could intrude
