

Animal Farm – Chapter 7

We know the animals are being made to rebuild the windmill and are being forced to complete extra work.

What do you think is going to happen by the end of the novel? Why?

How do you think the ending that we will get will be different to the ending you want? Why?

Evaluate which would be the most fitting or appropriate ending for Animal Farm given that it is an allegory for Soviet Russia under Stalin?

Animal Ethics Robert Garner,2005-09-02 This book is an attempt to lead the way through the moral maze that is our relationship with nonhuman animals. Written by an author with an established reputation in this field, the book takes the reader step by step through the main parameters of the debate, demonstrating at each turn the different positions adopted. In the second part of the book, the implications of holding each position for the ethical permissibility of what is done to animals in laboratories, farms, the home, and the wild are explained. Garner starts by asking whether animals have any moral standing before moving on to assess exactly what degree of moral status ought to be accorded to them. It is suggested that whilst animals should not be granted the same moral status as humans, they are worthy of greater moral consideration than the orthodox animal welfare position allows. As a result, it is suggested that many of the ways we currently treat animals are morally illegitimate. In the final chapter, the issue of political praxis is tackled: How are reforms to the ways in which animals are treated to be achieved? This book suggests that currently dominant debates about insider status and direct action are less important than the question of agency. That is, the important question is not what is done to change the way animals are treated, as much as whom is to be mobilised to join the cause. Students of philosophy, politics, and environmental issues will find this an essential textbook.

The World of Agricultural Economics Carin Martiin, 2013-04-12. This textbook takes a truly international approach towards agricultural economics, uniting many different perspectives on the subject and providing insight into agriculture in general and into how practical farming works in particular. The book is laced throughout with real world examples and other pedagogical features. Topics covered are wide ranging and include world food production and population, the food chain and food safety, non-foods derived from farming land, and soil issues, arable and animal production and management at farm level. The World of Agricultural Economics is an introduction, primarily an introductory textbook for students in agricultural economics, agronomy, and adjacent fields. However, its accessible approach means that it is also suitable for readers without any previous knowledge in the field who are seeking an introduction to agriculture.

Animal Breeding Orville L. Bondoc, 2008. This book is an outstanding contribution to the very meager list of books and reading materials available to Filipino teachers, students, and practitioners working on animal improvement. Dr Bondoc offers scholarly breeding principles based on his years of experience and research.

Livestock Farming Paul Wilber Chapman, Wayne Dinsmore, 1953. Animal enterprises: Dairy, cattle, Beef cattle, Swine, Sheep, Horses, and mules.

Why the Wild Things Are Gail F. Melson, 2009-06-30. This is the first book to examine children's many connections to animals and to explore their developmental significance. Gail Melson looks not only at the therapeutic power of pet owning for children with emotional or physical handicaps, but also the ways in which zoo and farm animals, and even certain television characters, become confidants or teachers for children, and sometimes tragically, their victims.
