Emotion and Learning: Contributions from Latin America Camilo Hurtado-Parrado,Carlos Gantiva,Leonardo A. Ortega,Alexander Gómez-A,Lucas Cuenya,Javier Leonardo Rico,2020-05-11 Latin America has increased its share of world scientific publications by nearly twofold during the last two decades approximately from 2 to 4% Despite this positive trend the scholarly impact of scientific research produced in the region measured in terms of citation rate remains low Two interrelated factors that contribute to this situation is that most research groups tend to work in isolation or in local sporadic collaboration and results are often published in journals that are not indexed in major citation databases e g SCOPUS or Web of Science Ultimately part of Latin American high quality research seems to remain hidden from the rest of the world Over the last decades an important number of Latin American scientists have developed fruitful research agendas on questions on learning and emotion focusing on basic and or translational research with humans and other animal models and implementing diverse methodologies Notwithstanding the important contributions of these research programs Latin American research on emotion and learning has followed the overall trend of other research fields throughout the region namely remaining partially hidden from the large scientific community of the world This Research Topic aimed to engage researchers from Latin America to share their empirical and conceptual work on learning and emotion Ultimately this effort was expected to strengthen and integrate our regional community of experts enhance global networking and establish new challenges and developments for future investigation Interest Groups in U.S. Local Politics Sarah Anzia,2023-09-15

Interest group scholarship has so far focused mainly on national politics and has had very little to say about interest groups in American cities counties school districts and special districts This special issue is a step toward remedying that it is a collection of articles and essays that examine some of the interest groups that are commonly active in US local politics The contributions herein discuss real estate developers tenant organizations teachers unions police unions and local PACs covering topics such as how they are organized how they engage in local politics some of the constraints on their influence and the nuanced ways in which ideology and identities can sometimes shape what coalitions are possible in the local context. By bringing this work together in one place in a journal devoted to research on interest groups the hope is that this special issue will help to cement interest groups in local politics as the recognizable research focus it deserves to be. U.S. Freight Rail Economics and Policy Jeffrey Macher, John Mayo, 2019-04-25 The passage of the Staggers Rail Act in 1980 led brought a renaissance to the freight rail industry. In the decade following economists documented the effects of the Act on a variety of important economic metrics including prices costs and productivity. Over the preceding years and with the return of the industry to more stable footing attention to the industry by economists faded. The lack of attention however has not been due to a dearth of ongoing economic and policy issues that continue to confront the industry. In this volume we begin to rectify this inattention. Rather than retread older analyses or provide yet another look at the consequences of Staggers we assemble a collection of ten chapters in four sections that collectively provide fresh and up to date analyses of the economic issues and policy challenges the industry faces. The first section sets the context through foundational discussion of freight rail the second section highlights the role of freight rail in an increasingly interrelated economy the third section examines industry structure and scope in freight rail and the fourth section assesses current regulatory challenges that confront freight rail. This book will be of great value to researchers academics policymakers and students interested in the fields of freight rail economics and policy transportation business history and regulatory economics. Corporate Environmental
