

- b. Snails don't automatically grow thicker shells because they need them in order to survive. Where, then, did new thicknesses come from?

- c. What role did the predators play in causing the population of snails to evolve? Did they create a need for the snails to change—a need to which the snails responded? Or did the predators simply determine which snails survived to reproduce and which didn't?

13. If natural selection favors snails with thicker shells as suggested by this simulation exercise, predict how the population of European green crabs might also evolve over time.

14. In addition to the fossil record, what other kinds of evidence reinforce the evolutionary view of life? You may want to use your textbook as a reference.
