Meurs,Pamela L. Perrewé,2017-07-01 Work related stress is costly not only to employees but also to organizations and society For example it is estimated that work related stress depression and anxiety costs British employers 1 035 per employee and that workplace stress costs the US economy up to 300 billion annually However elevated levels of stress often cannot be changed and if demands were not placed on employees employee learning organizational innovation and societal economic growth would be hindered Consequently it is vital that occupational health practitioners employees employers and researchers strive to better understand and manage workplace stress such that employee health and well being can be improved This book can assist organizations and individuals as they encounter workplace stress This edition highlights research done by 25 authors across 12 chapters that challenges how work stress is viewed and assessed Additionally a number of social and psychological influences on the stress experience are examined Our beliefs and expectations of stress and its results whether helpful or hurtful can have a profound influence on our stress experiences Also the way that we approach our work e.g. job crafting or the treatment we receive from others e.g. with dignity can either mitigate or exacerbate any harmful or beneficial effects of stress. Moreover, how we assess the psychological e.g. burnout and well-being or physiological e.g. cortisol outcomes of stress are meaningful and the proper diagnosis of stress e.g. stress surveys underlies our understanding. We hope that the findings reported in these chapters and the insights of these scholars will provide ways for you and/or your organization to improve the health and well-being of employees. The Publishers Weekly, 2006. McDaniel, 2014-04-14. Drawing on cognitive psychology and other fields, Make It Stick offers techniques for becoming more productive learners and cautions against study habits and practice routines that turn out to be counterproductive. The book speaks to students, teachers, trainers, athletes and all those interested in lifelong learning and self-improvement. From the Laboratory to the Classroom Jared Cooney Horvath, Jason M. Lodge, John Hattie, 2016-07-22. Over recent years the field of Science of Learning has increased dramatically. Unfortunately, despite claims that this work will greatly impact education, very little research makes it into teacher practice. Although the reasons for this are varied, a primary concern is the lack of a proper translation framework. From the Laboratory to the Classroom aims to consolidate information from many different research disciplines and correlate learning principles with known classroom practices in order to establish explanatory foundations for successful strategies that can be implemented into the classroom. It combines theoretical research with the diverse and dynamic classroom environment to deliver original, effective and specific teaching and learning strategies and address questions concerning what possible mechanisms are at play as people learn. Divided into five sections, chapters cover: A Framework for Organizing and Translating Science of Learning Research; Motivation and Attention as Foundations for Student Learning; Memory and Metamemory Considerations in the Instruction of Human Beings; Science of Learning in Digital Learning Environments; Educational Approaches for Students Experiencing Learning Difficulties and Developmental Characteristics of Gifted Children; Brain Behaviour and Classroom Practice; Forging Research Practice Relationships via Laboratory Schools. This fascinating text gathers an international team of expert scientists, teachers and administrators to present a coherent framework for the vital translation of laboratory research for educational practice. Applying the Science of Learning framework to a number of different educational domains, it will be an essential guide for any student or researcher in education, educational psychology, neuropsychology, educational technology and the emergent field of neuroeducation.
