Food for thought? Experimental evidence on the learning impacts of a large-scale school feeding program in Ghana Aurino, Elisabetta,Gelli, Aulo,Adamba, Clement,Osei-Akoto, Isaac,Alderman, Harold,2018-12-20 There is very limited experimental evidence of the impact of large scale government led school meals programs on child educational achievements in Sub Saharan Africa We address this gap by reporting treatment effects from a nationwide randomized trial of the Government of Ghana s school feeding program GSFP on children s math and literacy cognition problem solving ability and working memory and composite scores of overall attainments Based on the government s plans to re target and scale up the GSFP food insecure schools and related communities across the country were randomly assigned to school feeding After two years of implementation program availability led to moderate increases in test scores for the average pupil in school catchment areas ranging between 0.12 and 0.16 standard deviations Analysis focusing on per protocol population subgroups unveiled substantial heterogeneity school feeding led to remarkable learning and cognitive gains for girls poorest children and children from the northern regions Program effects were at least twice as large as for the average child Increases in enrolment grade attainment and shifts in time use toward schooling time constituted potential mechanisms for impact We conclude the program combined social protection with equitable human capital accumulation thus contributing to the imperative of learning for all set in the Sustainable Development Goals British Education Index, 1998

Social Justice Leadership for a Global World Cynthia Gerstl-Pepin, Judith A. Aiken, 2012-10-01 The global economic meltdown has highlighted the interconnectedness of nations This book seeks to provide an overview of topics issues and best practices related to defining social justice leadership given our increasingly global world Refugees and immigrants from around the globe now inhabit schools and institutions of higher education across the nation and US students teachers and leaders are traversing international borders both physically and virtually through international collaboration technology and exchange programs Although there have been increased efforts and scholarship in support of diversity and multicultural awareness these efforts have largely focused on the US We acknowledge that many leadership theories are domestic in that they typically incorporate US perspectives or a single culture description of effective leadership This book provides a deeper understanding of diverse and multicultural perspectives as they relate to a world that is becoming increasingly interconnected economically socially and culturally Particular attention is paid to providing specific strategies for social justice leaders working in PK 12 and or higher education and leadership preparation programs to promote effective leadership that reflects multicultural understanding of the diversity both within and outside the US Within the context of leadership practice internationalization offers new insights and ideas about leadership aims processes and competencies as a means for addressing equity concerns throughout PK 20 education Poole's Index to Periodical Literature: First supplement, January 1, 1882-January 1, 1887 William Frederick Poole, William Isaac Fletcher, 1888
