

Chapter 32 – Electrostatics

32.1 Electricity

1. "What is meant by the term 'electricity' as used?"

Electricity is a branch of science that is concerned with the charges that are at rest. It also studies nature's electric force and what it means for that force. It deals with the electric field due to static charges and their differential equations. Charges and their behavior within the volume of the electric field.

2. "What does the gravitational force between Earth and the Moon predominantly cover electrical forces? This is because both Earth and the Moon contain approximately equal numbers of positive and negative charges. Thus, there is nearly zero net force or attraction by electrical charges. Because of the very large masses of Earth and the Moon, gravitational forces predominantly cover electrical forces."

32.2 Electric Charges

1. "What part of an atom is positively charged, and which part is negatively charged?"

The nucleus of the atom is positively charged, while the outer shell of the atom is negatively charged.

2. "What does the charge of an electron compare with the charge of a proton? What does it compare with the charge of a neutron? Electrons have the same kind of charge, whereas the charge of a neutron is opposite to that of a proton. Therefore, the magnitudes of charges are the same and are a positive and negative sign."

3. "What is meant by the term 'charge' as used?"
