Aviation and Its Management Arif Sikander, 2019-05-22 Aviation has grown leaps and bounds within the last decade. Aviation courses and training at all levels have shown an exponential increase around the globe. There has been a restricted focus on writing books in this sector of the economy mainly due to the shortage of expertise in this specialist and complex area. This book was written with the purpose of meeting this need of the aviation sector. Due to the diversified nature of aviation knowledge which includes flying engineering airports allied trades for aircraft and airports airline and airport management and operations education etc one text alone will not suffice and do justice to address all these areas. It is envisaged to develop subsequent parts of this book to cover all these knowledge areas. This book is the first installment of any subsequent books and explores issues including airline management and operations airline business models airport systems flight operational procedures aircraft maintenance runway safety management systems and air traffic management. In particular attention will be given to aspects such as analysis of air traffic in a domestic market runway safety management systems critical success factors for multiple MRO service providers key pain points of the industry to be addressed to move into the future new research on hub airports for international flights new business models for airlines and runway safety management systems. Information Ergonomics Michael Stein, Peter Sandl, 2012-03-30 The variety and increasing availability of hypermedia information systems which are used in stationary applications like operators consoles as well as mobile systems e.g. driver information and navigation systems in automobiles form a foundation for the mediatization of the society. From the human engineering point of view this development and the ensuing increased importance of information systems for economic and private needs require careful deliberation of the derivation and application of ergonomics methods particularly in the field of information systems. This book consists of two closely intertwined parts The first theoretical part defines the concept of an information system followed by an explanation of action regulation as well as cognitive theories to describe man information system interaction A comprehensive description of information ergonomics concludes the theoretical approach In the second practically oriented part of this book authors from industry as well as from academic institutes illustrate the variety of current information systems taken from different fields of transportation i e aviation automotive and railroad The reader thus gains an overview of various applications and their context of use as well as similarities and differences in design This does not only include a description of the different information systems but also places them in the context of the theories and models which were presented in the first part of this book
