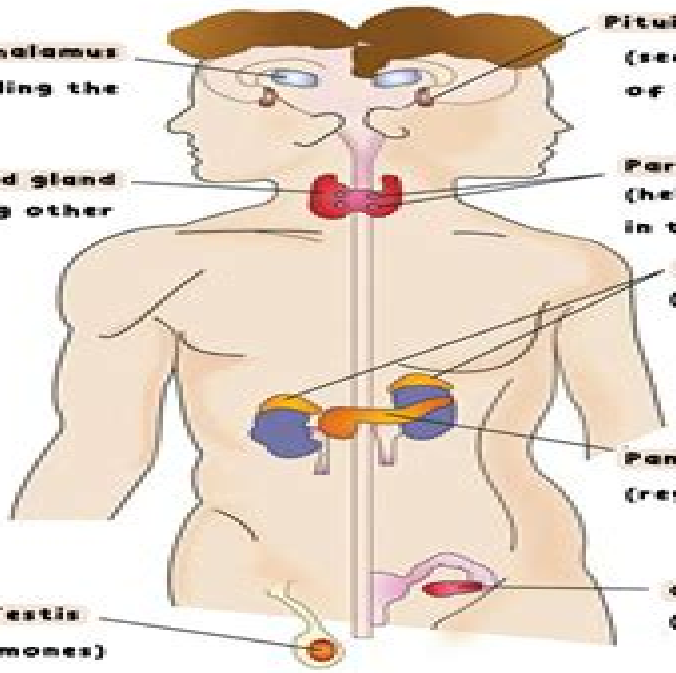
10. Second messenger system

- Water-soluble, nonsteroidal hormones-protein, and peptide hormones- are unable to enter the target cells, so instead, they bind to receptors situated on the target cell's plasma membrane and utilize a second messenger system.

Anatomy of the Endocrine System



Hypothalamus
(brain region controlling the pituitary gland)

Pituitary gland
(secretes many different hormones, some of which affect other glands)

Thyroid gland
(affects metabolism, among other things)

Parathyroids
(help regulate level of calcium in the blood)

Adrenal glands
(help trigger the fight-or-flight response)

Pancreas
(regulates the level of sugar in the blood)

Ovary
(secretes female sex hormones)

Testis
(secretes male sex hormones)

Hypothalamus

The hypothalamus, which is part of the nervous system, is also considered as a major endocrine organ because it produces several hormones. It is an important autonomic nervous system and endocrine control center of the brain located inferior to the thalamus.

Mixed functions

Although the function of some hormone-producing glands is purely endocrine, the function of others (pancreas and gonads) is mixed- both endocrine and exocrine.
